MELLEN ADMITS NEW HAVEN SERVICE IS BAD

WOLGAST LOSES CHAMPIONSHIP

GRAFT IN BUYING ON NEW HAVEN IS CHARGED

Charles Sanger Mellen, president of the New Haven and Boston & Maine, admits that the widespread protest against the New Haven and Boston & Maine service had basis in fact. He said:

I realize as well as any one else that the service of the two railroad companies of which I am president is not satisfactory. But we are going to do all we can to improve the service and make the railroads better in every way.

Force was lent to Mr. Mellen's remarks by a collision at Stoughton, when the Hull River boat train, running fifty miles an hour, struck a switching engine that had wandered on the track. No one was injured in some miracle of chance, though both engines were wrecked.

Mr. Mellen's remarks were in reply to a query whether he would, as had been reported, resign. He answered:

When I get ready to resign I shall make public announcement of that fact.

He discussed some charges of graft made against the purchasing department of his roads, then declared that most of the "unofficial complaints" against the two roads were "Socialistic," and added:

"Compliments to Brandeis."

I wish that you would give my compliments to Louis D. Brandeis, and tell him that I hope he will be able to prove everything he says. We shall welcome an investigation at any time, and welcome the assistance of anyone who can aid us in any way.

The wreck at Stoughton has its comic side. Engineer Fred Meister makes up a train chiefly for mail workers, that runs from Stoughton to Canton Junction every morning, a little ahead of the boat train and on the same track.

This time, Meister thought he would not take up his train till after the boat train had passed, but after leaving that the boat train was late, he decided to make the run to the Junction ahead of the boat train, as usual.

Stray Onto Main Track.

So he and his locomotive strayed out on to the main track to start making up. Just then he looked over his shoulder and saw the express coming fifty miles an hour, and only about 300 feet away. He scurried for a switch and got half over it when the locomotive of the boat train struck his. Meister, who had no fireman with him,

Hearst Relief Fund Awarded To Titanic Widows and Orphans

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Announcement is made today of the disposition of the great Titanic relief fund, which William Randolph Hearst started and in connection with which the New York American raised a total of $62,000.

Through the fund the great number of half orphans and widows will be assured of a good start in life. In some cases money is given outright, while in others, to insure the children against any bad business judgment on the part of their mothers, trust funds are being created.

To make their Thanksgiving Day mean something to them, the managers of the fund telegraphed the good news to many of the widows who might now be without homes had it not been for the generosity of the public.

A request was made by the women's relief committee at the time of the sinking of the Titanic that the New York American Titanic Fund be held in reserve until the widows were settled in their minds as to what they would do. For some months the work of investigation has been going on and information has been exchanged with the Red Cross Society and with the London Lord Mayor's fund, and now the awards are made.

TOWNS WIPED OUT, MANY LIVES LOST IN MANILA TYPHOON

MANILA, Nov. 29.—Reports still coming in of the results of the typhoon which occurred yesterday show a tremendous loss of life, and millions of pesos in damage to property.

The storm crossed the islands of Samar, Leyte and North Panay. The town of Tacloban, the capital of Leyte, was practically destroyed. Two steamers were wrecked in Tacloban harbor.

MILLIONAIRE SEEKS STOLEN DAUGHTERS

GALVESTON, Tex., Nov. 29.—P. O. Saunders, a millionaire owner of mining and ranch properties in Chihuahua, Mexico, who lately has made his home in Galveston, has begun a countrywide search for his two daughters, Consuelo, thirteen, and Eugenia, eleven, kidnaped Monday. Warrants have been issued for Sophia Martinez, a relative of the children.

MEXICAN BAND HAS INVADED NEW MEXICO

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 29.—A large band of Mexicans, well mounted and heavily armed, has invaded New Mexico and is threatening raids on the towns of Monticello, Fairview and Cuchillo in Sierra County, one hundred miles from the border.

FIGHT NORTH ADAMS FIRE NEAR GAS TANK

NORTH ADAMS, Nov. 29.—Two alarms called all the apparatus of the city to fight a fire which started in the coal sheds of the North Adams Gas Company. Employes fought it four hours before calling the department. The fire was checked as it was nearing two big gas tanks.

SANTO DOMINGO, Nov. 29.—The resignation of Eladio Victoria, President of the republic, has been accepted by Congress. Hostilities have been suspended throughout the republic.

HINGSTON SAYS HICKEY WRITES LIKE 'SLAYER'

William E. Hingston, the Boston handwriting expert, believes that J. Frank Hickey, now at Lackawanna, N. Y., facing trial on a charge of killing seven-year-old Joseph Josephs, is the same man who wrote postal cards to the Lackawanna police confessing to the crime.

Mr. Hingston was shown several letters Hickey is known to have written to Boston people. He also examined some of the post cards received by the Lackawanna police. He said:

"I am confident that these confession cards and the Hickey letters were written by the same man.

All of the letters and postals sent here by Hickey have been turned over by the Boston police and are at police headquarters.

The admission by Hickey, when booked by the Buffalo police, that his address was at No. 682 Washington street, Quincy, confirms the report that he is the same Hickey who formerly worked in the Fore River shipyards.

The number of the house on Washington street given by Hickey is that occupied at Quincy where Hickey boarded.

Hickey was apparently a deeply religious man, but never made any attempt to hide the fact that he was a victim of alcoholism at times. He told a clergyman and three local doctors before he left here that he was going to a sanatorium in New Jersey for treatment.

He said he had been treated at the same place once before.

Hickey was an electrical worker but was not considered a good workman. He was employed by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company and also by E. S. Beckford, but was discharged from both places.

During the last few days the Quincy police have learned from many men that Hickey was able to do a wholesale business at borrowing money. He was considered a man who was able to "touch" most any man and get away with it easily.

2 FATALLY HURT AS AUTO TURNS TURTLE

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 29.—Two men were probably fatally injured when an automobile skidded and overturned on the Hanover street boulevard in this city. Two men, Louis Lafreche and Edward Goodreau, were taken to a hospital with fractured skulls. The driver and a fourth man in the car escaped serious injury.

SHOOTS HERSELF AS DINNER GUESTS COME

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Clara Seavor gave her Thanksgiving guests a ghastly reception, shooting herself just before they arrived. She is now lingering between life and death. She said she was unhappy. Mrs. Seadvor is fifty-five years old.

CHINESE RAISING BIG RUSSIAN WAR FUND

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 29.—A number of meetings have been held at Chita, China, to organize a boycott of Russian goods, according to a despatch from there. The Chinese are endeavoring to collect $5,000,000 war fund and enlist 20,000 volunteers.

Patrick on Honeymoon Today

Celebration Waited 10 Years

Cheers "Death Chair Bride"

PATRICK AND WIFE, WHOSE ALTAR WAS IN TOMBS

Cleared of Rice Slaying Charge, He Bears No Grudge: "To Prove His Innocence."

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—A honeymoon ten years deferred is today the portion of Albert T. Patrick, pardoned by Governor Dix after being twice on the verge of death in the electric chair and a life prisoner in Sing Sing, following conviction as the slayer of William Marsh Rice.

Today Patrick and his wife are at the home to which he sped, following his release. Mrs. Patrick is in poor health, owing to her long fight to obtain her husband's freedom, following their marriage ten years ago in the Tombs, on the eve of the day he was sentenced to die. Patrick is pinning her for her devotion and the big part she played in opening the prison doors for him. In addition, he is trying to get his perspective again after twelve years in cells.

Patrick said today:

I expect to continue my fight for vindication and to clear my name. I have been twelve years in prison—eighteen months in the Tombs in New York and over ten years in Sing Sing—and I realize from my long incarceration that I must have lost my perspective of what has been going on outside.

Judgment dictates that I regain my perspective before I decide upon my future plans, but you may say that I shall never cease my efforts to clear my name until I have been successful.

I do not feel venomous toward any one. My philosophy teaches me different.

All I can say at present is that I am returning to my wife who is sick and failing. When I can decide calmly and reasonably as to what my future plans will be I will make a statement.

SEND CUTTER TO CRIPPLED SHIP

The steamer George Warree, which was reported in distress off Block Island, is anchored in safety off the Island, according to word received today by her owner, William Harper, Jr., No. 9 Vaughn street, Dorchester. The revenue cutter Acushnet has gone out to her aid, and if she reaches her may take her in tow, as the Warren's machinery has been damaged by the storm.

Her flaring Coston lights gave rise to the report at first that she was afire. Wireless word was spread along the coast to go to her assistance. But the heavy gale at last drove her near the Island and the captain managed to work her into a shelter.

Early reports had it that the ship was in dire need of assistance and in danger of being driven ashore on the rocky coast of Block Island. The gale was sweeping down the sound at a sixty-mile rate and when the craft was first sighted ten miles eastward of the Point Judith gas buoy she was wallowing heavily in the seas.

There were no passengers aboard the vessel.

The storm that disabled the Warren lashed the whole coast. Off Nantucket a sharp lookout was kept for the fishing smacks that had been caught in the gale.

Tugs with their tows and coasting craft had a bad time of it coming up and down the coast. The wind, driving before it a cutting sleet and snow, kicked up a nasty sea. It was impossible to see ahead more than a few ships lengths.

RITCHIE AWARDED DECISION IN 16TH ROUND ON AD'S FOUL

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—Ad Wolgast is no longer lightweight champion of the world. He lost by striking Willie Ritchie a foul blow in the sixteenth round of their scheduled twenty-round battle at Daly City, yesterday afternoon.

Whether Wolgast saw that a knockout was inevitable and preferred to lose his laurels the way he did is an open question. The writer believes that the champion was so dazed that he had nothing left but his fighting instinct, and was lashing out blindly when he delivered the punch that cost him his crown.

WOLGAST A BEATEN MAN.

As far as it could be judged Wolgast was a beaten man, anyhow. He had reeled once to the clutch and, after taking a right-hand crack on the jaw. He was staggering around when he fell again without being struck. Ritchie, who was plainly rattled, kept right after Wolgast after the first knock-down, but was unable to connect cleanly. It was so much that Wolgast displayed cleverness in avoiding Ritchie's assaults as it was that Wolgast was lunching and reeling in such a manner that Ritchie could not hit surely.

It was like timing at a swinging target, in any case. Wolgast staggered around, and Ritchie unloaded volleys of punches on thin air.

Wolgast's head cleared in some extent and he fought back. He swung clumsily at the body, there being neither dignity nor force behind his punches. And Ritchie against the ropes once, kept him there by leaning on him.

Ad Hit Foul Blow.

Ritchie escaped and danced to and fro and planted himself to deliver a right hander. Wolgast reeled toward him, and after a couple of wild swipes swung his right into the San Francisco boy's groin.

AUSTRO-SERVIAN WAR IS FEARED

LONDON, Nov. 29.—War is possible between Servia and Austria as a result of Servia's attitude in the matter of the seizure of Durazzo.

The Servians, ignoring the proclamation of Albanian independence accepted the port without reservation.

General Jankovitch, the servian commander, immediately sent to the Belgrade government the following despatch:

We have now occupied Durazzo for perpetuity.

The fact that the Belgrade government has made public this telegram, says the Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, is regarded as posting Servia's irreconcilable attitude.

Budapest papers assert that Servia is

GERMANY PLANS HUGE DIRIGIBLE FLEET

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—The discussion in the lobbies of the Reichstag centres today on what is regarded as the certain appearance of Germany's first aerial navy. The recommendations of the war office and the admiralty include the creation, as the beginning, of a fleet of twenty Zeppelin airships of about 220,000 cubic feet capacity, capable of travelling fifty miles an hour and remaining aloft for four days and nights. They are to be capable of carrying and discharging one ton of explosives.

SHOOTS BROTHER PLAYING "MOVIES."

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Playing "movie stars" at their home, William McBride, fifteen years old, son of a wealthy marble dealer, probably fatally wounded his brother Louis, aged twelve. Their father attributed the accident to his son's attempt to re-enact scenes on motion picture films.

JOHN R. THAYER'S SON DIES EATING DINNER.

WORCESTER, Nov. 29.—Henry Holmes Thayer, oldest son of former Congressman John R. Thayer and a prominent attorney, fell dead of heart disease as he sat with the family of his brother John at the Thanksgiving dinner. He was making a joking remark when stricken. He was a Harvard and Harvard Law graduate.

VETERAN DIES IN HOLIDAY STORM

WILLIAMSTOWN, Nov. 29.—The Thanksgiving snowstorm brought death to Asaf C. Davis, a Civil War veteran. Davis, who was a teamster, was found in a shed and died from exposure.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—The Liberty Bell petition, mounted on a high reel and containing the signatures of nearly 200,000 school children of California is on its way to Philadelphia. The petition is two miles long.

HUNT GARAGES FOR DEATH AUTO

The Somerville and all Greater Boston police today began a more rigorous search in garages and elsewhere for the chauffeur and passengers of the black touring car that swelled the November side of Bunker Hill by killing Jamsey Bennett at Broadway and Lincoln street, Somerville.

The police description of the automobile is:

Seven-passenger touring car, with black body, very new, with equipment of chauffeur's seat for extinguishing electric lights.

With this to work on, backed up by the story of Motorman Madden of an inbound Medford-Winter Hill car, who saw the tragedy and declares he can identify the death car's chauffeur, the police are confident of being able to make an early arrest.

Bennett, the dead man, was sixty, and lived at No. 33A Jacques street, Somerville.

Sergeant James M. Harmes, who is investigating the tragedy, has evidence that there were three men in the machine when Bennett was struck. Two of them were smooth-faced and wore black derby hats and sat together in the rear seat, while the third man was the chauffeur. While it was first reported to the police that the car was a red one, they learned later that it had a black body.

That the machine is of a late make is the belief of the police. According to the witnesses, all the lights on the machine were immediately extinguished when Mr. Bennett was struck and the automobile increased its speed and disappeared up Winter Hill.

The sudden extinction of the lights leads the police to believe that it was equipped with electric lights, operated from the chauffeur's seat.

An autopsy was performed on the body of Mr. Bennett by Medical Examiner Examiner Thomas M. Durell of Somerville. The man was struck a terrific blow, and Dr. Durell in the autopsy found that Bennett's right shoulder was crushed in, five of his ribs were forced in his lung and there was three quarts of blood in the chest cavity.

Motorman Madden saw the automobile coming along Broadway from the direction of Boston at an excessive speed. He saw Mr. Bennett struck and the car's speed increased at once.

Owners of public garages in surrounding cities and towns were communicated with in the investigation.

Just What Do YOU Think of Mrs. Wentworth's Sacrifice?

THE strange love sacrifice of Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth, the Boston playwright, dramatic reader, socialist and suffragist, who got a divorce so that her husband, Franklin H. Wentworth, might marry Alice Chapman, a cherished friend of both, has attracted the attention of men and women the country over.

Thousands upon thousands are interested in the unusual surrender of a husband to another. No divorce case in years has aroused the same amount of comment. From all parts of the country, there are coming to the AMERICAN, opinions of men and women, prominent workers in many lines. Some praise Mrs. Wentworth, others condemn her, some take a middle course.

Now what do YOU think of this strange love sacrifice of Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth? Write your views on the unusual case to the AMERICAN.

College Girls Told to Catch a Man Each for Northwestern

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Northwestern University has inaugurated a practical, though unortical, course in requesting and man-catching—"for girls only."

The girl students were urged by President Harris in his chapel address to go out into the byways and hedges and drum up students for the school.

"This school needs more men," he said. "You girls can get them. Bring a man, each of you."

Giggles!

"That's just what I mean," he insisted. "The freshman class is going to be short of men. You know where to find them."

More giggles!

Whoever home town is the place to find eligible young men to make up the freshman class," continued the president. "Hunt them up, talk to them, bring them with you."

The new course ads fair to be crowded.

BRIDGEWATER FARM HEAD PINNED UNDER AUTO; WILL RECOVER

BRIDGEWATER, Nov. 29. — Captain Hollis N. Blackstone, superintendent of the state farm at Bridgewater, who was injured last night when his auto turned turtle, is not as badly injured as at first thought. He suffered a bad scalp wound and a severe shaking up but is resting comfortably today. No complications are expected. It was at first thought that Captain Blackstone had sustained internal injuries.

The cause of the accident is unaccountable. The captain and his chauffer were proceeding along the road from Bridgewater to Taunton at a moderate rate of speed when the machine suddenly swerved, leaped into the air and turned bottom up. Both Captain Blackstone and the chauffer were unconscious when picked up by a passing motorist and hurried to this city. Captain Blackstone is sixty-two years old.

ARRESTED, SAYS HE'S INNOCENT VICTIM

Fred G. Krause's family in Somerville, after a sad Thanksgiving, declare today that it is an easy thing for an innocent man to fall into the police dragnet. For Krause, standing in front of a Cornhill store window, was arrested after John McCarthy of No. 915 Harrison avenue came out of a store and said his money had been stolen. The police now believe Krause a victim of circumstances.

GIRL'S BODY FOUND; POLICE PROBE CASE

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 29.—The police are at work, following the finding of the mutilated body of Liliian Schadle, aged twelve, who disappeared from her home, in a private reservoir near Ardmore, a suburb. The girl left her home to buy supplies for the Thanksgiving dinner.

mobilising against Austria and intends to form a new army, armed with the weapons captured from the Turks.

From the conflict is raised in acute form the question of Servia, and it remains to be seen whether the Austrian government will take any direct action or will be content to leave the question for the after-the-war settlement.

The fact that the negotiations are progressing at Bagtchee, and that there is no sign of the resumption of operations on the Tchataija lines, while the Great Powers are exchanging proposals for the assembling of a European conference, all make for a peaceful settlement.

EXPECT BULGARIA TO COMPROMISE; SEE EARLY END OF WAR

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Special correspondent of the Boston American and London Daily Chronicle at Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 29. — An armistice being practically in existence, the delegates of the Balkan States and Turkey, now assembled at Bagchestein near Tchatalji, are satisfactorily arranging the terms of peace.

A fair estimate of the good fellowship existing is to be gathered from the fact that the delegates today entertained each other at dinner; the friendliest feeling exists, thus greatly assisting the discussions.

The Porte is very reticent, but a most hopeful air pervades high official circles. I have excellent authority for stating that Bulgaria is showing a most conciliatory spirit.

I believe she is inclined to adopt a less firm attitude regarding Adrianople, hitherto the chief stumbling block. The Turks have demanded that the new frontier shall be a line drawn from Kirk Kilisseh to the neighborhood of Salonica, Adrianople remaining Turkish.

The Bulgarian delegates are demanding a frontier line from Mustapha Pasha to Dedeagatch, on the river, Maritza, the port of Kavala, becoming Bulgarian territory.

With a disposition to compromise on the part of Bulgaria on the subject of Adrianople, there is probably a speedy solution of all the questions at issue.

VIENNA CITIZENS SHOW LOYALTY BY BIG DEMONSTRATION

VIENNA, Nov. 29.—The citizens greeted news of mobilisation here with a great demonstration of patriotism.

Much excitement was occasioned by the action of the government. The Parliamentary leaders met and decided to allow the premier's three bills dealing with matters connected with the mobilization to go to committee without the customary first reading.

Field Marshal Baron Von Hoetzendorf, inspector-general of the Austrian army, is in Bucharest, as the guest of King Charles. He bears an autograph letter from the Austrian Emperor and will confer with the Roumanian chief of staff.

An extraordinary meeting of the municipal council made a demonstration of great loyalty, amid rousing cheers for the Emperor, and adopted a manifesto declaring that:

The maintenance of peace is worth great sacrifices, but the economic prosperity of nations, and the full blessings of humanity, are only vouchsafed to states which maintain peace, not by dishonorable weakness, but forcefully, supported by the consciousness of a just cause.

This Is How Good Our $25 Suits For Men Are

All this week we have been holding a stock-taking sale—which has included men's suits at one-third less than the usual Filene prices.

These suits were of excellent value at the usual figures, and a good many men realized at a glance the exceptional value at the lessened figures.

Yet a significant thing—and a thing of which we are right proud—is the fact that a great many men who came into the Men's store while this special selling was in progress walked up to our $25 suits and said:

"This Is What I Want"

There is an idea back of that. And it does not mean that the special priced suits were in any way undesirable. It's as plain as all outdoors.

had in the meant me shut off steam and dodged from his cab through the window of a passenger car that stood along side, escaping without injury.

Engineer Loveton of the coal train put on his emergency brake before he struck, and beyond giving a serious jar to the passengers in the cars no harm was done his train. The locomotive twisted and displaced the rails and left the track, but the cars remained on the rails and were not damaged. Meistge's locomotive was sent flying.

Engineer Loveton, after a short delay, got a new locomotive, switched his train around the section of wrecked track, and came on to Boston.

Coal Bought From Mellen's Son.

The allegations of graft made against the road are, in brief:

1—That all coal used by the New Haven and the Boston & Maine is bought from President Mellen's son on terms not quite so favorable to the roads as could be obtained through open and above board competition.

2—That a close friend of President Mellen ("Diamond Jim" Brady) has the valuable privilege of providing these roads with all their railway supplies.

3—That another intimate friend of President Mellen, Ralph D. Gillett, head of the Western Massachusetts Contracting Company, has been given contracts to build trolley lines for Mellen in Western Massachusetts without having had to meet any competitive bids, and that for these roads extravagant sums were paid.

Charge Graft.

The following statement was made by Allen Hollis and Raymond B. Stevens, counsel for the State of New Hampshire, before the Public Service Commission of that State, during an investigation of freight rates: We learned that the railroad purchased a large part of its freight car wheels of a concern owned by a high railroad official.

We also learn that until recently the railroad purchased its freight axles of another concern owned by a man prominent in political life. The amount lost to the Boston & Maine railroad by continuing to use these old-style axles cannot be determined.

Substantially the entire coal supply is purchased of two concerns, in one of which the son of a prominent railroad official is a partner, and in the other a director of the New Haven railroad is a partner.

"Contracts Void."

Under New Hampshire decisions the coal contracts would be clearly void for fraud, and the other transactions would require incontestible proof of good faith.

Mr. Mellen was shown the statement. He said:

The Boston & Maine Railroad purchases, and has purchased for a long time, most of its wheels from the Kimball foundry at Concord. Mr. Kimball, the president of that company, is president also of the Concord & Montreal Railroad. But that is a question for our purchasing agent.

"But is not the purchasing agent, as your subordinate, responsible to you?" Mr. Mellen was asked.

"He is," Mr. Mellen replied, "but I have received no official complaint regarding where we buy our freight car wheels or how much we pay for them."

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Adds Healthful Qualities to the Food

Prof. Prescott, of the University of Michigan, explains why Royal Baking Powder adds healthful qualities to the food.

Testifying before the Pure Food Committee of Congress, the Professor stated that fruit acids were excellent articles of food and that of these cream of tartar, the acid of grapes, held rank with the highest both in itself and its effect in the process of leavening and baking. He regarded the results from cream of tartar baking powder as favorable to health. Scientists and hygienists are in accord with this opinion.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar.

Gift of Husband Stirs the Nation

MRS. WENTWORTH'S LOVE SACRIFICE IS PRAISED BY SOME, OTHERS CRITICISE

Marion Craig Wentworth's remarkable renunciation in giving her husband to her friend, Alice Chapman, with whom he fell in love, has caused comment throughout the whole country.

Dr. Moses J. Konikow, a prominent Socialist of Boston, said that he found himself in a similar position a few years ago. His wife, Dr. Antoinette Konikow, was entertaining Maxim Gorky, the Russian writer, when he was in Boston, fell in love with a young man. She confessed her love to her husband. It was finally arranged that she should leave him. The couple was divorced and the woman remarried.

Did She Love Husband?

Dr. Moses J. Konikow, in discussing the Wentworth case, said:

"You can not regulate love. The dope pack in a case like this is the children.

Dr. Konikow's former wife, who is also known as Dr. Antoinette F. Konikow, says that she admires Mrs. Wentworth for being true to her principles.

Clergymen, physicians and others have given the matter consideration in Boston, taks diverse views of the Wentworth marriage arrangement. Mrs. Eva McDonald Valesh, editor of the American Clubwoman of New York, says that if Mrs. Wentworth really had loved her husband she would not have given him up without a struggle. She does not think the new wedding will prove a happy one.

Here are some of the expressions on the Wentworth marriage, both favorable and unfavorable:

Dr. Moses J. Konikow, of Roxbury, said:

I suppose I should not say anything about the Wentworth transfer of love, as I was in the same "fix" myself some time ago. But you cannot regulate love. When you think you have full control of it it breaks out into another way and gets you all confused. I think that a man should be married to the woman that he loves.

If anything comes up in the life of his first marriage to destroy his love for his wife and he finds that he is loving another and that other person will make him more happy, why it is a question in my mind whether he better not get married to the one he really loves than to stay with the one that he has no affection for.

The only drawback to this is that it gets the children mixed up in such marriages. A man does not want to continue unhappy in his married life when by marrying another he can make himself happy.

But this matter will some day adjust itself. We can't say much about it yet, and probably Mr. Wentworth has some good reason for his transfer of affection that has not yet been made known. Anyway let us hope that we'll get more light on this kind of marriage.

"True to Principles."

Dr. Antoinette Konikow of Malden said:

Mrs. Wentworth's action, I believe, is an example of the ideal way to settle marital differences.

I admire Mrs. Wentworth most heartily for being true to her principles in this matter. There are many people ready enough to talk of advanced things, but few ready to put their ideals into practice.

Mrs. Wentworth deserves admiration, and the future happiness in store for her and for her former husband and his bride should show better than anything else how sane and wise their course was.

Rev. James Sheerin, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, South Boston:

There is the social effect of such an exchange of affection that this Wentworth case presents. How will it affect the world? Will people get a higher conception of the marriage relation from it? This seems impossible.

It is pure selfishness for people to take this type of interest in marriage, putting their own interpretation ahead of the general good.

Dr. William F. Bean, eminent student of social and sex problems:

I firmly believe in Mrs. Wentworth's suggestion of divorce by mutual agreement. Where two people, married to each other, become uncongenial and both realize it, they should part—provided, of course, there are no children.

But in such a divorce as this, I can't help feeling that the man should have overcome his attraction to this other woman. He should have exerted self control. Such things tend to make marriage too loose. It is, and should be, a sacred thing, for the sake of the family. Most men are subject to temptations, but they have no right to allow themselves to fall in love with other women, and most of them manage to avoid it.

"Nothing Short of Shameful."

Mrs. Wentworth acted in a splendid spirit. The man, apparently, was decidedly below par. He didn't deserve his first wife. It's a bad example for the public. The children, the child in this case, will suffer inestimably.

Even if a man falls in love with another woman he ought to get over it. We have seen many such cases among our own acquaintances. Sometimes both parties were married. But they simply put the thing aside and everything turned out happily.

Rev. William A. Wood, D.D., pastor of the Worthen street Methodist Church, Lowell:

Any candid mind having the best and highest interests of the family life in view will greatly deplore this Wentworth episode. It is nothing short of being shameful, and once in a while we are obliged to listen to certain persons who make free interpretation of a sacred institution like marriage.

The most enlightened minds in any community will condemn these Benedicts who do not care much for the honor of human society, but just to gratify some whim of their own. It is nothing short of being outrageous.

Colonel Adam Gifford of the Salvation Army said:

What would the whole world come to if everyone took into their hands to debunch the marriage relations as this Wentworth case brings to light?

Why, this is shocking. No decent person will praise such a step. People, when they are married, should aim to love one another and continue to love one another and not be the victim of some hallucination in love.

THANKSGIVING CHEER REMAINS

There was thanksgiving in hundreds of Boston homes today. Thanksgiving for dinners that would not have been but for the kindness of the Salvation Army, and other charitable institutions. The spirit of the feast day items an echo in today's cheeriness on the part of many.

Three thousand baskets were distributed by Mrs. Gifford, wife of Colonel Gifford, with her own hands. The was provided with an automobile by a friend.

People's Palace, the Salvation Army hotel home, was packed. Twenty-five hundred children were fed. President John J. Attridge of the City Council made a brief address. Two hundred workmen were fed at the Salvation Army Industrial Home in Roxbury.

Thanksgiving cheer was even in the jails and prisons. At the State Prison they had pork, and a vaudeville entertainment was provided. Jesse Pomeroy ate his thirty-seventh Thanksgiving dinner in his cell, where even the strains of music from the entertainment could not reach him. The prisoners also enjoyed a football game. At the Charles Street Jail Sheriff Quinn served his prisoners fricassee chicken, apple sauce, sweet potatoes and mince pie, a whole one apiece.

At Deer Island there was turkey and two baseball games as well as a vaudeville entertainment for the women.

Even celery leaves were eaten in the immigration quarters at Long Wharf, the detained immigrants who were forced to spend their first Thanksgiving in a strange land in the custody of the United States. John Chisholm, the twelve-year-old Boston boy-orator, furnished part of the entertainment with a good variety of nursery rhymes.

At the Soldiers' Home the 512 inmates enjoyed a bountiful dinner. At the navy yard Uncle Sam provided a fine shore dinner for the hundreds of marines and sailors.

Feasts were fed at the Little Wanderers' Home, the Boston Industrial Home, the Bethany Mission and other institutions. At the Franklin Square House more than 350 of the 450 young women living there sat down with about 100 guests and enjoyed a merry time.

St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum and the Home for Destitute Catholic Children in the South End gave the 500 youngsters in their care a good time. At the House of the Angel Guardian the boys had a fine time with outdoor sports to give them an appetite for the big dinner. Two hundred aged men and women were cared for at the Home of the Little Sisters of the Poor on Dudley street, Roxbury. St. Joseph's Home on East Brookline street, conducted by the Gray Nuns, for working women, was the scene of a merry observance. The sisters also sent out many dinners.

NO MORE CONSTIPATION

It's Me for Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and Calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated tablets.

They cause the bowels and liver to act normal. They never force them to unnatural action.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are so easy to take that children do not regard them as "medicine" at all.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Olive Tablets at bedtime. They're perfectly harmless.

Thousands take one every night just to keep right. Try them.

'Cowardly to Give Husband to Rival'

MAN SHOULD STRUGGLE TO RETAIN WIFE'S LOVE

Mrs. Eva McDonald Valesh, woman editor who criticises Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth, noted Boston playwright, for divorcing husband so he may marry another.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The amazing story concerning Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth, the Boston playwright and reader, who willingly obtained a divorce although loving her husband, Dr. Franklin H. Wentworth, so that he could marry Miss Alice Chapman, has caused great discussion among New York clubwomen.

Mrs. Eva McDonald Valesh, editor of the American Clubwoman, at No. 42 West Thirty-ninth street, declared that Mrs. Wentworth could not have really loved her husband to give him up without a struggle, and predicted that the marriage of Dr. Wentworth and Miss Chapman would turn out unhappily.

One of the most unusual phases of the case was Mrs. Wentworth's declaration that she loved Miss Chapman and still loves her, although she alienated the affections of the Boston physician. She also declares she loves her husband as much as ever.

Blame Is Mutual.

Mrs. Valesh when seen by a reporter said that the case could have been easily settled had the Wentworths allowed Miss Chapman to go away when she offered to. Mrs. Valesh declared that an absence of one month would have cured Dr. Wentworth of his infatuation.

"It is almost inconceivable to believe that Mrs. Wentworth was really in love with her husband," she said. "It is easier to believe that what she thought was love was merely an infatuation which she believed would very easily wear off. I firmly believe that all persons who cannot get along with some mates should be separated.

"I myself, if I had a husband and I knew that he loved another, would give him up. I would not, however, give him up without a struggle. There is nothing more demoralizing than two people living together when one of them wishes to be free.

"The difficult proposition in a case of this kind is when a woman becomes married and she has children. That woman is naturally led to believe her home and her marriage is a permanent one. It is extremely hard for this woman to give up a husband as she would a piece of bric-a-brac and allow him to take up another. It is not nearly so difficult now for a woman to make her own living as it was twenty years ago, and I think this reason is causing many women to accept their freedom where they wouldn't have done so formerly.

"There's also in all of these, and I believe it exists in this case, a selfish personal reason. You cannot make me believe that the real love existed between Mrs. Wentworth and her husband, and this Miss Chapman, and that Mrs. Wentworth would continue to have the same kind feeling toward Miss Chapman which she pretends to have.

"There undoubtedly are more women leaving husbands today than there were formerly. This increasing number should be viewed with alarm, as many leave for infatuation with another man and not for pure love, as they believe it to be.

"Every modern condition is making it more and more difficult for a woman to obtain legal headdresses. I go one think that the happiness of Dr. Wentworth and Miss Chapman will be lasting. I do not think that their marriage will be a successful one. Any one who accepts such a big sacrifice as Mrs. Wentworth has given can never, in my opinion, be happy in the taking.

Lacks Emotion.

"These people, I believe, like the majority of persons, are mistaken in what they think love really is. They think perhaps that love will be permanent in their case. I don't think it will be. Love, I believe, is really a permanent thing. I think it is cowardly of Mrs. Wentworth to give up her husband as she did. Nobody gives up anything they love dearly without a struggle.

"If you owned a beautiful horse; if you owned a beautiful piece of jewelry—which you can hardly compare to a wife—and somebody tried to get it away from you, you would fight for it. Just so in this case. Men are far more sincere than women in these matters. A man is far more wrecked-hearted in these matters. I do not believe that a man in the same position as Mrs. Wentworth would have given up so easily.

"This entire matter, as far as Mrs. Wentworth is concerned, shows absolutely that she is unemotional."

CLEANS THE HAIR AND MAKES IT BEAUTIFUL—25-CENT "DANDERINE"

In a few moments your hair looks soft, fluffy, lustrous and abundant—No falling hair or dandruff.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few moments you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of Dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly, long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

ACCUSE HIGGINS AT BOMB TRIAL

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 29.—The government will close its case against the defendants in the dynamite conspiracy trials either today or tomorrow, according to District Attorney Charles W. Miller.

Frank J. Higgins of Boston was accused of having admitted that the blowing up of the tower of the municipal buildings at Springfield, Mass., on April 4, 1911, had cost $200, at the trial.

Daniel W. Gallagher of Somerville, Mass., testified that after the explosion Higgins admitted he had gone to Hartford, Ct., to establish an alibi, and Higgins had said the explosion cost the Iron Workers' Union $300. The witness also testified that Higgins told of trouble that Michael J. Young of South Boston had had in trying to unionize the Springfield job.

Orrie E. McManigal confessed that he actually caused the explosion and received pay for it.

Higgins was indicted with fifty-three others last February by the Federal Grand Jury in Indianapolis. He was arrested on February 14 at his home, No. 237 Dudley street, Roxbury, and was privately arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes, who read to Higgins part of the indictment.

Four days after his arrest, Higgins was again arraigned, together with Michael J. Young, a member of the executive board of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. Higgins' bail was reduced from $5,000 to $2,500 when he expressed willingness to be in Indianapolis on March 12, and plead to the charges against him.

It was charged at that time that Higgins had knowledge of the shipment of twenty-five sticks of dynamite from Albany to Boston shortly before the explosion at the Boston Opera House. It was also alleged by Assistant District Attorney Garland that Higgins was the "man selected to do the job."

District Attorney Charles W. Miller announced that he will insist on enforcement of the court's ruling that the bonds of fourteen of the defendants are invalid because they are indemnified.

OPEN AQUARIUM AT MARINE PARK

The horsefish and the cowfish and all the other little and big fishes in the Marine Park Aquarium, had many visitors today. The aquarium, erected with money from the Parkman fund, was thrown open to the public yesterday afternoon. City officials and business men were present. Mayor Fitzgerald, members of the park commission and guests under the guidance of Superintendent Louis R. Mowbray and Assistant Superintendent Andrew E. Featherstone, were shown over the building.

The Mayor, after accepting the building from Contractor B. F. Carroll, made a few remarks before turning it over to Superintendent Mowbray.

When the doors were opened the first boy in was Patrick Flaherty, aged eleven, of No. 94 O street. On his heels came about thirty other boys of his same age.

The seals were the chief attraction for the children and grown-ups.

Those carrying umbrellas or canes were forced to check them before they were permitted to go near the tanks. This is to prevent anyone from poking the glass front of the tanks and breaking them.

The hatcheries of the new aquarium are to be its most interesting feature. The eggs of different sorts of fish are in a series of wooden troughs which run through the centre of the building, and visitors will be able to watch the hatching and development of the fish.

VALJEAN IN REAL LIFE DISCLOSED

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29.—Victor Hugo's masterpiece of fiction can give few points to the case of the modern Jean Valjean which has been unearthed in New Orleans and which promises to become of more than national interest before it is completed. Arrested for a crime committed when he was nineteen, Emile Denlon, fifty-two, model citizen, father of a family, a man of moderate circumstances and respected by all, is facing a long term in the Louisiana penitentiary.

Denlon was arrested Saturday as a fugitive from justice, but at first his friends scoffed at the charge. Neighbors who had known him for a decade were positive that it was an instance of mistaken identity or of stupidity on the part of the police. Then Denlon was taken to jail and the story came out.

Before attaining his majority Denlon and Edward Broderick, who since has died, entered into a mischievous compact to fire a church in St. Charles avenue. The two young men were arrested, and Broderick, horrified at the results of the prank, turned State's evidence. Denlon was tried and convicted as an incendiary and was given a sentence of fourteen years in the State penitentiary at Baton Rouge. Born of good parents, shamed by his disgrace, he went, alone and friendless, to serve out his term. But a few months elapsed, however, before the high spirited youth heard of an opportunity to escape and dug its way out from the prison walls. A reward was offered, but without result. The escape was forgotten.

For many years Denlon drifted about the world, seeing strange things in strange parts and growing into a steady and sobered man. Eighteen years ago he came back here and married, three children being born of the union.

MRS. EDWARD ALSOP, YOUNG STEPMOTHER OF 2 HARVARD MEN

MRS. EDWARD ALSOP
INTERNATIONAL NEWS PHOTO

Mrs. Alsop, 19, Is Greeted at Pier by Her Aged Husband

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Edward B. Alsop, seven months bride of the Pittsburgh septuagenarian, who has two stepsons in Harvard older than herself, has returned from Europe with her friend, Mrs. Alice Martin, having left Mrs. Tom Pierce of the North Shore abroad. Mr. Alsop was at the pier, and greeted his nineteen-year-old wife enthusiastically, setting at an end the report they had separated.

Mrs. Alsop was so elated at being back in New York that she was hardly able to express her delight. The voyage had been charming, she said, and her visit to the European capitals had filled her with wonder.

From the pier the couple went to the Pennsylvania station, en route to Washington.

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS OF U. S. SENATE DEAD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. — Colonel Daniel Ransdell, sergeant-at-arms of the United States Senate, former United States marshal for the District of Columbia, and intimate friend of the late President Harrison, is dead here as the result of an operation performed on November 7. For nearly twelve years Colonel Ransdell had been the "natural of the Senate," as he sergeant-at-arms.

BEAUTY PARLOR IN ASTOR HOME

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Mrs. John Jacob Astor, who was Madeleine Force, has added a beauty parlor to the two-million-dollar home, No. 840 Fifth avenue, which was bequeathed to her in the will of her husband, who lost his life on the Titanic. All the essential features of the room and experts from leading establishments are in attendance.

Close acquaintances of Mrs. Astor who have known of the beauty parlor laughed at the suggestion that its installation may be taken to mean the Colonel's widow may remarry.

Details of the establishment of the parlor were given by friends of Mrs. Astor. They said that she called in an architect who decided that alterations could be made on the second floor so that a suitable room could be established there near the bedroom of Mrs. Astor. Gentry Shelton of No. 12 West Forty-Second street directed electricians in setting up a beauty parlor apparatus including a hair dryer, which with one press of a button turns on cold air. Another turns on a slight degree of heat, while still another a higher degree, and so on until practically any degree that may possibly be desired is obtained.

Several electric massage machines were included, one with an applicator of intense rapidity for the chest and shoulders, another of lesser degree for the arms and one of extreme softness for the cheek. On the hair powder or facial cream may be placed so as to rub a glow into the cheeks in such a way that the sharpest eye cannot tell it from the natural color that nature gives to those who take the air.

A gold plated comb, the teeth of which are hollow and through which a spray is forced from a tiny bulb, is another part of the equipment. There also is a bell-like electric machine for face bleaching, several varieties of shampoo bands, nail polishers, nail enamels, a jewelled set of cuticle scissors and knives, expensive marcel irons, an array of imported silken hair nets and aseptic sterilizing cabinets in which much of the assortment is placed.

A chair of carved wood that revolves or reclines is there. An ample top manicure table, lockers, and mirrors by which Mrs. Astor without moving her chair may see her head at almost any angle complete the beauty-making outfit.

SUFFRAGETTES POUR ACID IN MAIL BOXES

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The ingenuity of the militant suffragette party has broken out in a new direction. An organized raid upon the pillar letter-boxes throughout the city, in the West end and many of the suburbs and in several provincial towns.

When the postmen went to collect the letters they discovered in the boxes acids and black, sticky fluids of various kinds. In a few instances the contents of the pillar boxes were set on fire.

GIRL COVERS 15-MILE "HIKE" IN THREE HOURS

The fifteen-mile Thanksgiving "hike" under the auspices of the Municipal Athlete Association, had eighty-seven starters, flooding seven women. Miss Mildred Belknap, the seventeen-year-old girl who has been conspicuous on the several "hikes" for her good walking, made the fifteen miles in three hours, finishing fifth.

Certain Cure for Nervous Debility

Tona Vita Overcomes the Trouble in a Few Weeks' Time.

There is a remedy that is absolutely certain to build up those suffering from a run down condition. This remedy is considered the most successful medicine ever sold to the public in this country. It is called Tona Vita and it is fast becoming a national tonic, endorsed by physicians everywhere.

If you are debilitated, tire easily, have little strength or ambition and are nervous and downcast, get a bottle of Tona Vita at once. You will be delighted to feel your old health and strength returning in a few days' time. If you have lost flesh, note your weight before taking and then get on the scales a week later. You will be astonished.

Tona Vita is sold by all druggists.

WOMAN SHOT, PROBE MYSTERY

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The mysterious circumstances of the attempted suicide of Mrs. Laura Rice Pollock, the handsome thirty-three-year-old wife of Frederick Pollock, one of the foremost cloth experts in the United States, wealthy and supposedly related to one of the noble families of Vienna, are to be investigated. She shot herself in the right temple with a revolver in the dining room of her home at Ocean avenue, Massapequa, L. I.

It is known that Mrs. Pollock made a statement at Coroner Naughton, who is also a justice of the peace. What it was, he refused today to disclose. He did say:

"It's a case of attempted suicide. If Mrs. Pollock dies, I shall make a stringent investigation and I shall take the same investigation if she recovers. I have heard her statement, which I shall not make public at this time, but I may have something to say soon, according to whether Mrs. Pollock lives or dies. That's as far as I can go now."

The motive for the attempted suicide is a mystery. Mrs. Pollock was thought to be as happy as a woman could be.

BLANCHE BATES, A BRIDE, QUITS STAGE TO DARN SOCKS NOW

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Miss Blanche Bates, who since yesterday is Mrs. George Creel, is today on a trip through Porto Rico, Panama, Yucatan and Cuba, with her husband. Creel is reform police commissioner of Denver, and former editorial writer and dramatic critic of the Denver Rocky Mountain News.

They were married at Miss Bates' summer home in Newcastle. She will quit the stage to darn socks.

Judge Ben B. Lindsey was best man, while Mrs. Rupert Hughes, wife of the author, acted as bridesmaid. The others were Brand Whitlock, reform mayor of Toledo, O., and a former newspaper man and magazine writer, and Harvey J. O'Higgins, also a magazine writer. Many prominent playwrights, stage folk and authors were among the guests.

While Miss Bates was playing at the Broadway Theatre in Denver three years ago she met Mr. Creel.

VACCINATE POLICE WHO TOOK HUB YOUTH

Because John Nicholson, the Boston youth, who is ill of smallpox, was taken to the Portland, Me., jail on suspicion that he was a Massachusetts boy who was wanted, seventy-one officers and policemen there have been vaccinated and the place fumigated.

What They Did Besides Hunt That Wishbone

While millions of Americans ate their turkey and made that their full day's program, others found time to accomplish several other things. Here's what they did besides indulge in that great annual game, hunt the wishbone:

PRESIDENT TAFT—Attended Pan-American mass under flags of twenty-one republics. Was guest at Ladd-Bontell wedding. Had a fifteen-pound Rhode Island turkey, but missed an eighteen-inch mince pie from Aunt Delia Torrey, which went astray in transmission.

PRESIDENT-ELECT WILSON—Drove with Mrs. Wilson after feast at Bermuda, and then saw play.

MAYOR FITZGERALD—Came very near resting. Merely saw football games, to see son play; spoke at a aquarium dedication, dined with family and was in auto collision.

GOVERNOR FOSS—Entertained four generations, attended church, witnessed christening of Eugene Noble Foss 2d, four-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Foss.

MRS FREDERICK W. VANDERBILT—Gave dinner to messenger boys and newsboys in Masonic Hall, Newport.

BUSINESS LESSONS HELP TO WOMEN AS MUCH AS TO MEN

Down one State street they tell a story of a housewife who, on being given a check by her husband for the purchase of Christmas gifts, took it to the bank to have it cashed. The paying teller asked her to endorse it.

"Surely," said the housewife.

She took the pen and across the back of the check she wrote: "Your loving wife."

Now the point is that had the housewife read Seymour Eaton's "One Hundred Lessons in Business," she would not have made the paying teller laugh the way he did. She would have endorsed the check in the right way. The column by Mr. Eaton is worth while, is interesting, and is attractive.

The AMERICAN has the exclusive distributing privileges for the Boston district and has arranged to give its readers the full benefit of a very low price. The volume can be had by clipping six coupons from the AMERICAN and 68 cents in cash.

DINE ON NANTUCKET LIGHTSHIP IN A GALE

NANTUCKET, Nov. 29.—Probably one of the roughest Thanksgiving celebrations on the coast was held on Nantucket lightship with the wind blowing sixty miles an hour. There was little celebration in many houses, owing to the anxiety for fishing smacks caught outside in the storm.

HUNT $30,000 WILL OF WOMAN RECLUSE

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Search was made today for the will which Anthony Orechinto, a barber, says Miss Octavia Friedrick left, leaving him $30,000. Miss Friedrick, a recluse, was suffocated by smoke. The barber, who lived in the same house, says he had taken care of her, and that she left him the money out of gratitude.

HOLD AMERICAN AS SWISS SWINDLER

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Nov. 29.—An American, who said he was William Moon, son of New York city, is under arrest here on the charge of having defrauded hotels all over Switzerland. The police say he was arrested in London in 1906, but relatives add that they have reason to believe he is a member of a prominent American family, and that Moon is an assumed name.

MARY GARDEN TO HALT FLEET OF TIME AT 35

When I am thirty-five I shall stick there to the end. That is the most glorious age of woman! The age of her greatest beauty and worth—the potential age that holds in its grasp the mystery and charm of the golden days of womanhood.—Mary Garden's defiance to Father Time.

Mary Garden, who is in New York and is shortly coming to Boston to sing, declares she will halt the fest of time when she is thirty-five. This, she believes, can be best done "through the power of mentality."

Turn Back, O Time!

Yes, I am firmly convinced the more nearly I approach thirty-five, that it is the wonder age of woman, I believe, too, that if a woman wants to be thirty-five and stick there she can do it. I have begun to think of it already, and I expect to so impress it upon my own mind that thirty-five I shall be and thirty-five I shall remain.

Have I changed my mind regarding matrimony? Yes and no. Sometimes it seems that my life may not be wholly complete, and again it seems too full to crowd anything else into it. I can say that marriage at this time in my career is a secondary thing.

I am not husband hunting. On the other hand, I believe that I could and would be a wonderful wife if the man of my ideals should appear.

The Glorious Forties.

If this dream creature should ever appear I would give up all for him. He would have to be a man who realizes all that my life has been to me in its great moments, in its sorrows, its joys, its lights and shades, and then if I found that his intellect could grasp and appreciate all of this and that I found in him something superior to my understanding and in sympathy and in breadth and in depth of feeling I would turn over another page of this book called life and on a clean white page I should begin anew my life story.

A man should rush along as quickly as possible to get to that beautiful manhood of forty. His thirties are his "prep school" for life, and under thirty he is just as much of a nuisance (and a pleasure) as young growing animals—colts, calves, puppies.

ANDREWS JEWELLERS

WATCHES Rock-Bottom Prices

Every leading American well known watch at the lowest rock-bottom price—right from the factory. In every style, case or movement, plain, embossed or engraved. Prices lower, values better, guarantee longer at the watch headquarters of Boston.

Railroad Time on the Dot or Your Money Back

We guarantee our watches to keep perfect time second for second with the time which runs the railroads. That's why we have sold more watches and still more watches year after year for thirty-two years. It's because we have satisfied people everywhere, time and because we sell at prices which are the very lowest that we get the best watch trade in Boston. If you find anybody selling perfect time-keeping watches lower than we do, let us know, and we will positively hold our regular selling price correct to the thousandth timekeepers at the lowest prices in New England.

THE Rexall STORES

Opening the Newest Store Washington and School Streets

Liggett's

Tomorrow

LIGGETT'S formally present to Boston tomorrow their newest store on Washington Street, corner of School.

It is the finest and best equipped store we know how to build—as befits this corner, one of the busiest in the world.

LIGGETT'S stores have set an entirely new standard in drug store keeping in the past year. They have already built up a tremendous business throughout the United States and Canada because they have given the public better service than was ever known before.

LIGGETT'S stores are always spick and span, light, bright and cheerful.

They show the newest and most attractive merchandise.

They are officered by men and women, who take pleasure in their work, who serve you well, and serve you politely.

LIGGETT'S stores are stores of certain quality and stores that, through the application of efficiency, always offer the lowest known prices.

This will be a gala day at the newest of the LIGGETT stores. There will be souvenirs in profusion, and the new store, as well as every other LIGGETT Drug Store in Boston, will be heaped to overflowing with extraordinary merchandise values. We have made exceptional preparations for your entertainment.

NOTICE—The special merchandise is on sale at all stores. Souvenirs are given at our School Street Store only. Only one Souvenir for any one complete purchase.

SAY HORSE MEAT IS STAPLE AT CHICAGO FREE LUNCH COUNTER

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Even the meek and lowly "free lunch" isn't free from "mock-raking." The State Asbure Food Commission believes horse meat is a free-lunch staple, and has begun an investigation. Discovery of two horse-slaughtering plants just outside the city limits led Assistant Commissioner John B. Newman to take action.

The larger of the two plants is a mile west of the city limits at Forest View. It is operated by Gustav Grimm. At this plant, it was said, not less than ten horses are slaughtered every day. Some of the animals, according to the inspectors, are so old they can barely walk.

The other plant was discovered by State Inspector F. J. Hoey, in the town of Berwyn. Hoey seized a quantity of horse meat, apparently ready for the market which will be subjected to tuberculin tests.

Form Club for "Affinities"

Mock Divorce Suit Pains Cult

MISS BERAN, WHO APPEARED IN MOCK DIVORCE TRIAL

Annulment Instead of Divorce Favored by New York Organization

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Here's a real live organization incorporated under the laws of New York State with the sole mission of taking up "affinities," "soul-mates" and "dynamic forces" as a serious proposition in spite of cynics and other unprofessionable persons who look on these things as a joke.

The name of the organization is the Philosophic Society, and the adviser of its New York division is Albert E. Shore, whose knowledge of "affinities" is vast.

Before talking about the objects of the society, Mr. Shore remarked that he and other members of the society were greatly pained at the printed reports of a mock divorce trial given by some of the younger and more frivolous members in the Lesli, at No. 209 West Eighty-third street, on Thursday.

Trial Startlingly Real.

The mock trial bore a startling resemblance to the real thing. The "long-suffering wife, Mrs. Williams," was played by Miss Marie Beran, Mr. Shore's stenographer, who lives at No. 760 Franklin avenue, Brooklyn. The "soul-mate" was Miss Avelina C. Buell, of No. 145 Audubon avenue, who took the name of "Miss Jordan."

Some light-brained male person suggested a "turkey trot" and was immediately ejected.

After passing over the incident of the mock trial, Mr. Shore launched into deadly serious discussion of the divorce question.

"We don't believe in divorces," he said.

"No, sir. What we would have is annulments. If two people find they are unsuited to each other, it should be declared no marriage. We also believe that children resulting from the union of people not properly mated to each other are not normal.

Believe in Affinities.

"We thoroughly believe in affinities and mates, and say that when two persons marry they should be sure that they are really soul-mates. The trouble with marriage today is that the contracting parties don't know enough about each other."

Mr. Shore declared that the society already numbers among its members persons in various walks of professional life and men and women of leisure above the average.

Finally he said that no more mock divorce trials or "turkey trot" adherents would be allowed to ruffle the calm and dignified munitions of the society.

BARONESS VON SUTTNER HERE TODAY TO SPEAK

Baroness Von Suttner arrives here today from Philadelphia where she has been addressing the Woman's Suffrage convention. She will deliver a number of addresses here. One of the most important will be tomorrow morning at Ford Hall, her topic being "Women and War." Mrs. Edwin D. Mead will preside.

The Baroness will speak at the Mariek Church in East Boston this evening and at the luncheon of the Twentieth Century Club tomorrow.

Sunday morning she will speak at the South Congregational Church on "International Friendship," and in the evening she will speak at the regular Ford Hall meeting. On Monday evening she will speak in Milton, taking the night train afterward for Buffalo.

During her stay in Boston she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gun and Mrs. J. Malcolm Forbes.

A number of the Baroness' early books attacked war in an original and vigorous manner, but it was the work known in English as "Lay Down Your Arms," for which she was awarded the $10,000 Nobel prize, which first brought her prominently to public notice.

CITY HALL AND "DUMP" SEE LAWRENCE MEETINGS

LAWRENCE, Nov. 29.—There were two Thanksgiving Day celebrations in Lawrence yesterday.

Thirteen hundred gathered in the City Hall and heard addresses by Samuel J. Elder, Judge Charles A. De Courcey of the Supreme Court and Mayor Scanlon. Letters were read from Cardinal O'Connell and from Bishop Lawrence.

Every one of these 1,300 wore a flag. The meeting was a gigantic demonstration of patriotism.

Two thousand others gathered in "The Dump," an open field where ashes and refuse from the streets are dropped by the city's scavengers. For two hours, in snow and wind, they stood silent, listening to the words of Joseph J. Ettor, recently freed from jail.

"What have you to be thankful for?" was the burden of his discourse.

Each of these listeners wore a bit of red ribbon. When Ettor finished, they cheered, hoarsely.

Cultivation of Flag-Flying.

They had been refused a permit to parade in thanksgiving for the release of Ettor, Giovanitti and Caruso from prison.

At City Hall thanksgiving was offered by the work accomplished by the citizens' committee, and resolutions were adopted to support the city government in the maintenance of law and order and to defend it once against all slander.

The celebration of the citizens was the culmination of the flag movement and protest against the I. W. W., started before Columbus Day. It began with the ringing of the bells on all the city's churches. Bells tolled at noon and at dusk. Meetings were held in various places and besides the gathering at City Hall there were others in the public schools.

The meeting at the hall was presided over by Charles E. Bradley and besides the speeches included the reading of Mayor Scanlon's proclamation calling for the flag demonstration and the reading of the thanksgiving proclamations of President Taft and Governor Foss by Augustus V. McCarthy, a high school boy.

Mr. Elder, in his address, declared that the people of Lawrence had been justly angered by some of the reports sent from their city. He declared that aliens were welcome to this country, but that they must not come here as aliens and strangers. They must come as Americans under our flag, under our law and under our spirit.

Judge DeCourcey Speaks.

Judge De Courcey spoke after Mr. Elder, and said in part:

The fundamental fact must be impressed upon all, native and foreign born, that every effort to solve the complex problems of our progressive life must be made under the acknowledged rule of order and of law.

Lawrence is a factory city. It is likely to remain essentially a textile manufacturing city with all that it implies. It will be a market for unskilled laborers with relatively low wages such as the latest immigration supplies.

Two other important factors are first, that our city was settled by and has ever been composed of people who earn their own livelihood.

The other fact is that the mills, which constitute the basis and bulk of our industries and employ fully one-half of the population over fourteen years of age, are almost wholly owned by non-residents whose personal influence is not exerted in this community.

Here then is our problem of unifying the community, under peculiarly difficult conditions, and in the light of our recent history, one that demands prompt attention.

"Spirit Means Success."

The success of our efforts will depend largely on the spirit we manifest toward our new neighbors. It is absolutely necessary that we banish any feeling of race prejudice.

The letter of Bishop Lawrence read in part:

Having in my younger days worked with you for eight years for what we all believed the welfare of the city, I perhaps have a right to send you these words of greeting.

We who have been here several generations want to join with those who have been here a half generation in building up this republic and our cities. Lawrence is now going at it in the right way, with smiles towards none, with past events in the background, with faces forward and the national flag, representing our national life, calling people to a loyalty to our American institutions, to liberty under the law.

Cardinal O'Connell's letter was addressed to the Rev. James T. O'Reilly, C. S. A., of the committee in charge of the Thanksgiving day celebration. It said:

I need not assure you that I have followed with interest the recent demonstrations by which the citizens of Lawrence so effectively displayed their loyalty to God and country, and incidentally destroyed the false impression given by a few socialistic and atheistic disturbers at the time of the recent labor troubles.

Reverence for Flag.

The magnificent parade on Columbus day was a display of reverence for the flag of our country, which brought forth words of commendation and approval on all sides.

The I. W. W. met on the Dump. About 1,000 were assembled when Ettor arrived. Standing on an old wagon which had been drawn down onto the lot he threw off his hat and walking back and forth, gesticulating freely, talked for almost two hours. When he had finished bouquets were showered upon him and one Italian mother pressed forward and stretching forth her arms, handed him a week-old baby, asking him to kiss it.

"I'm going to call it Ettor," she said to him.

In his speech Ettor said:

Today, in the city of Lawrence, thanks are being given to God and the flag. But the real thanks should be given to the lord of industry, or the humble laborers, who, by their energy, their labor, their very blood, make what there is to be thankful for.

Today the pillars of society are going to meet to give thanks. Not to those to whom thanks is due, though; not to the workers.

Let me ask you a question: Am I a work slave, $7 a week? Then, what thanks have you to offer, to present today? We have no thanks, only curses, and we will shout out our curses until they reach the heavens. We have no thanks.

One class knows no happiness. One class revels and wallows in it. The kidnapers of children from the schools give thanks to the Lord.

But the dream of labor will come true. And we will not need shotguns, we will not need to plant dynamite. We will just have to stop working and the capitalist class will freeze and starve to death.

SKIN TROUBLE ON HANDS, ARMS, LEGS

And Feet. Some on Body. Formed Dry Scabs. When He Scratched Water Would Come Out. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Stopped the Itching and Cured Him.

173 Paris St., East Boston, Mass.—"I have a little boy eight years old who had sores on his hands, arms, legs, feet, and some on his body. They formed dry scabs. I had him treated and it looked worse; it was spreading. In the night he scratched so much that in the morning he was all blood and his bed also was a mess with blood and scabs. When he scratched the sores, matter and water would come out from them. I bought a box of ——, and that did not do any good, and I was discouraged. My aunt said to me, 'Why don't you try Cuticura Ointment and Soap?' She said it would stop that itch and give it a chance to heal. The next day I got a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap.

"I gave him a good bath with the Cuticura Soap and put the Cuticura Ointment on him all over where the sores were. He slept that night all night. I only had to use two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and two cakes of Cuticura Soap and he was all cured and has never had sores since." (Signed) Mrs. John J. Girtler, Jan. 20, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

FRASER WANTS TO REJOIN FORCE

The trial board will today report to Commissioner O'Meara on the application for reinstatement of William A. Fraser, formerly a patrolman of Station nine, who was discharged nearly a year ago for beating Kenneth J. MacDonald, a prisoner in his care. The trial board that convicted him has heard new evidence.

MacDonald was a landscape gardener living on Bine Hill avenue, Dorchester, and on the evening of July 7, 1911, while taking a friend home he met Fraser. There was some conversation and MacDonald told the patrolman that he would look better driving a span of horses than a tip-cart in a policeman's uniform. Fraser arrested MacDonald, and when booked the prisoner appeared to be free from physical injury.

Early in the morning MacDonald was found unconscious on the cell room floor. He had been terribly beaten; a leg was broken, several ribs smashed, and he was otherwise injured. MacDonald was under the care of hospital physicians for eight weeks, and an out-patient for five months.

MacDonald said that after he had been locked up Fraser, who was a much bigger man, beat him until he begged for mercy and finally became unconscious.

HUNT MAN WHO SHOT AT ORTH

The Boston police are investigating what they believe was an attempt to kill Carl Orth, a young Brighton music teacher, who narrowly missed a bullet that crashed through his bedroom window at his home, No. 46 Lenark road, Brighton. The police found tracks in the snow in the rear of the house.

Orth says he saw a dark form moving swiftly away up the open space and hill back of the house.

Orth is twenty-three years old. He declared today that he had no enemy who might want to kill him, but he thought it was the act of some one bent on injuring him, nevertheless.

A search was made for the bullet hole in the wall or ceiling of the room, but it was not discovered. The police believe a high power air rifle was used.

Husband and Wife Both Saved From Suffering

I wish to tell you the good results myself and husband received from Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. About eleven years ago I had a severe attack of La Grippe and was confined to my bed about eight weeks under the doctor's care. He pronounced my case kidney trouble and rheumatism and not receiving the results from the doctor's treatment I should have received, I decided to try Swamp-Root. After taking several bottles of Swamp-Root I was able to get up and attend to my work. About a year later my husband was affected with a severe attack of kidney trouble and doctored for some time with the doctors and received no benefit. Knowing of the good I had received, he decided to try Swamp-Root. His condition was such that he was confined to his bed and words cannot tell how he suffered, but after taking Swamp-Root he was relieved so he could go on with his work without pain. I wish to heartily recommend Swamp-Root to all persons afflicted with kidney and bladder troubles and you may publish this letter if you wish.

Yours truly,
MRS A. E. BRIGGS

FIRST APPLICATION OF A SIMPLE REMEDY DARKENS FADED, GRAY HAIR

Gives Strength and Beauty to the Hair—Leaves the Scalp Clean and Healthy.

You don't have to have gray hair or faded hair if you don't want to. Why look old or unattractive? If your hair is gray or faded, you can change it easily, quickly and effectively by using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. Apply a little tonight, and in the morning you will be agreeably surprised at the results from a single application. The gray hairs will be less conspicuous, and after a few more applications will be restored to natural color.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur also quickly removes dandruff, leaves the scalp clean and healthy, and promotes the growth of the hair. It is a clean, wholesome dressing which may be used at any time with perfect safety.

Get a fifty cent bottle from your druggist today, and see how quickly it will restore the youthful color and beauty of your hair and forever end the nasty dandruff, hot, itchy scalp and failing hair. All druggists sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if you are not satisfied after fair trial.

John W. Ladd Weds Miss Boutell with President as Guest

Several Boston people returned today from attending the wedding, at which President and Mrs. Taft were guests, of Miss Alice Gates Boutell, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sherman Boutell, and John Wood Brooks Ladd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Babson S. Ladd of Boston and Coohasset.

The wedding was in Washington, at St. John's Church. Mr. Boutell is the American Minister to Switzerland. Members of the President's Cabinet, Justices of the United States Supreme Court, members of the Senate, House of Representatives and of the diplomatic corps were also among the guests.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Reginald Peare of Massachusetts, assisted by the Rev. Roland C. Smith, rector of St. John's.

The bride was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Roger Sherman Gates Boutell, as matron of honor. Miss Constance Anderson of Ottawa was maid of honor, and the following were bridesmaids: Miss Amelia Ladd, a sister of the groom; Miss Beatrice A. Cowan of Ohio; Miss Catherine Hollister, Miss Frances Webster, Miss Margaret Worthington and Miss Natalie Murray. Hugh Gatch Boutell, a brother of the bride, was the best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Ladd will be at home in Boston after The Wayfarers' Inn.

WHAT MY CREDIT ARRANGEMENT WITH THE BIG STORES MEANS TO THE PEOPLE OF NEW ENGLAND

I received the co-operation of the big department and specialty stores when I started out to revolutionize the credit business of New England. By the use of the Peoples Credit Company's ORDER CHECK I made it possible for a man or woman to go into their favorite cash store and buy anything in the store at the regular advertised cash bargain prices and pay $1.00 a week. By the use of the ORDER CHECK I delivered the people out of the clutches of the old-style credit houses. Every person, man or woman, using OUR ORDER CHECK at the stores in Boston will receive every consideration accorded cash customers. Our check is accepted as cash—no questions, no delay, goods delivered at once—no waiting—THE GREATEST CREDIT ARRANGEMENT IN THE WORLD.

You have the labels of the best cash stores on your clothing just the same as your neighbor, who pays cash, and NOT the label of some cheap credit house.

Men can now buy the extensively advertised celebrated brands of America's high grade clothing and pay $1.00 a week

We sell the standard brands of men's clothing on credit at cash prices—clothing such as you see advertised in the newspapers and magazines locally and nationally. We are BOUND BY AGREEMENT with the manufacturers not to charge one cent more for these brands than is charged by the cash stores. You get the labels of the best clothiers on your clothing when you buy of us, and not the label of some cheap credit house. The following are sold on credit by us exclusively:

THE RICHARD SYSTEM CLOTHES of New York City, the highest class ready-to-wear garments in America.

R. B. FASHION CLOTHES of Rochester, N. Y., the "snappiest" clothes in America for the clever dresser.

STROUSE & BROS. "HIGH ART" CLOTHES of Baltimore, Md., clothes of quality, suitable for the conservative dresser.

GRIFFON CLOTHES of Baltimore, "Faddy" clothes for young men.

LINCOLN BRAND of Boston, the very best medium priced clothes made.

FRANKEL SYSTEM CLOTHES of New York City, including the famous Frankel $15.00 Suit, the best suit made for this price in America.

CHARACTER CLOTHES of New York City, highest grade, strictly union-made garments.

NATIONAL STUDENT CLOTHES of New York City, style, quality and make are all combined in this brand, especially adapted for the youth.

ADLER'S CLOTHES of Milwaukee, the famous "Collegian" Brand.

PRIVATE OFFICES FOR USE OF CUSTOMERS—This year we have added several more private offices for our customers, where business may be transacted without the objectionable publicity of the old style methods of old style concerns.

NEW RUSSIAN DUMA IS NOT EXPECTED TO AID AMERICAN JEWS

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 29.—The new Duma is progressive. It cannot though be said that a majority will be found to favor the American contention in the passport controversy in regard to Jewish citizens.

The Extreme Nationalists are eminently a the minority, but the bulk of the members, it is said, are not prepared to give American Jews or American goods preferential treatment. The policy of the government will be to make the Russian market independent of American cotton and American agricultural products, and in this it is fairly certain to be supported by the Duma.

Ramsayite Signs Never Fail Even He Who Runs May Read

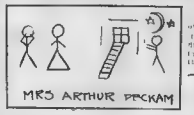
SOME ANSWERS.



Boy Czarevitch Has One Skin Too Few; Shows Low Vitality

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Daily Mail's Czarevitch has one skin too few. That is the trouble with him according to word received here. The following is printed in London tells the story:

The Czarevitch has the covering of skin too few, such as was the case with the late Duke of Albany. This skin deficiency is aggravated by the deficiency of combining the extravasation of blood in the groin region, which caused superficial inflammation extending to the top of the abdomen. This condition and the extreme slowness of diminish in the coagulating points to much complication, I should say.

As regards the [illegible] more is to said known yet whether the trouble is due to defective constitution or whether it threatens to be hereditary. It is declared that nothing points to danger to the boy's life, and that the system of boyhood may bring [illegible] symptoms, but he has the extreme nervous activity often seen in children who are not destined to live long.

3 DIE IN WRECK; U. S. PROBE ON

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—A party of railroad officials and chief inspector H. W. Belknap of the Interstate Commerce Commission today began an investigation of the fatal wreck at Glen Loch, twenty-five miles from here.

Belknap, acting under orders from Commissioner Method, is assisted by James E. Howard, an expert of the Bureau of Standards.

Three persons are known to have been killed and more than twenty are injured. The derailed train was the Cincinnati express on the Pennsylvania railroad. One day coach and three sleeping cars fell twenty feet down an embankment upon a train of empty cars on the freight line, which at this point, runs parallel to the passenger tracks.

The most serious part about the wreck was that so many of the passenger got their passage. After the first shock, when the cars toppled over, and they found no fire or serious damage to the structure of the cars, they were able to grope their way back to berths and dress by the light of lanterns. Some of the passengers hustled into their clothes while standing in vestibules. The steel cars prevented fire and saved many lives.

The cars were badly smashed and piled high on both sides of the coal train. The track was running on schedule time. A special train was made up at Harrisburg to take West [illegible] passengers for Pittsburgh and beyond.

MAYOR IN 2D AUTO COLLISION

Mayor Fitzgerald has come a right and up from his second auto crash of the year.

He says that Dr. S. H. Ayer of No. 315 Shawmut avenue, whose car lost a wheel and had its running board splintered, will be treated fairly, but he does not believe the doctor can collect from the city. The Mayor's car escaped with a smashed head light.

The collision occurred near the corner of Columbus avenue and Clarendon street. Dr. Ayer, alone in his car, was coming along Clarendon street. He started to cross Columbus avenue, and when three quarters of the way over, headed for the opposite side of Clarendon street. The Mayor's car, coming straight up the avenue, crashed into the rear of his machine. A second later another crash followed as the doctor's car swung into an electric light pole.

The Mayor, in company with his son and chauffeur, stopped and talked with Dr. Ayer for a moment and then proceeded to the Mayor's home in Dorchester.

Dr. Ayer says that he will ask the City of Boston to make good the damage to his car.

"I do not think I was to blame in any way," he said.

On the other hand the Mayor says the accident was unavoidable all round.

Boston Men Can Buy $17, $18 and $22 Suits & Overcoats FOR $12.00

Radical stock adjustment is the order of the day among the suits and overcoats. It may seem paradoxical but is nevertheless a fact that it is the most popular styles in the store that are being sacrificed.

A PHENOMENAL Thanksgiving business made stock-righting imperative. Naturally the best-selling styles have to stand the brunt of this price-lowering, so this sale has the unusual feature of the very best suits and overcoats in stock—at lowered sale prices.

The Overcoats Include every new and advanced style from the short "Guards" belted back coats to the big double-breasted "Great-coats." Nine models to choose from. Fabrics range from the conservative Melton and Kersey to the fuzzy Foviss-tock and ultra herringbone. You'll find just the coat you've planned to buy in the "lineup." $12

Men's $17.00 to $22.00 Suits
Fine all wool mixtures in new browns, new grays, the new bronze and black combinations. Not a Suit worth less than $17.00, and up to $22.00. At..... $12

HIGH LIVING AND POOR NOURISHMENT

When your food does not nourish you, the cells retain impure, diseased blood and poisonous matter. The final step of disease is in perfect accord and the body quickly succumbs. Every day you read about overdoses because of rich, impure blood are seen. Instead of abused constitutions, which yet hold out a chance of relief from the drugs, there are many other serious cases of nervous, pale, weak and debilitated persons who are run down through overwork or worry and are unable to get the best strength from their food, because their digestive organs have become impaired.

Such people should at once and effectively use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, which act directly and effectively on the blood, restoring its vitality, enriching it, and thus building up the entire system. Mrs. [illegible] of [illegible], Mass., says:

"I had begun to despair of getting well until I gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. Before I had taken the pills a month I felt much better, both mentally and physically. My nerves became stronger, my heart action was more steady and the distressing symptoms were lessened. My appetite increased and I soon became well and strong. Since using the pills I have gained ten pounds. I can truthfully say that I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the very best medicine any person suffering as I did, can take."

Send today for the free booklet, "What to Eat and How to Eat."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

STOMACH SICK, SOUR, UPSET AND FULL OF GAS? PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

In five minutes! Time it! All Indigestion, Heartburn and Dyspepsia gone and your stomach feels fine.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—the sour? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt, if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate fermented into stubborn lumps, your head dizzy and aches, belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food, breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that a occasional dose of Pape's Diapepsin keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebelling, if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful it digests food and sets things straight so gently and easily that it is astonishing. Please don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach, it's so unnecessary.

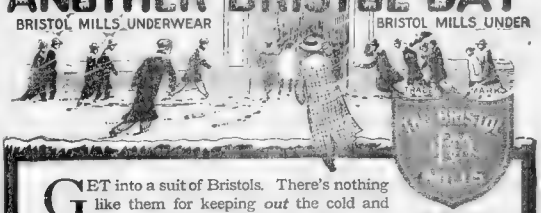
BRISTOL MILLS UNDERWEAR



GET into a suit of Bristols. There's nothing like them for keeping out the cold and keeping in the comfort. Every Bristol garment is made of fine-gauge, close-knit yarns (not the coarse-grade, coarse-knit yarns usually found in garments at these prices). They're warm and comfortable without being heavy, scratchy or burdensome. Most of the big stores are selling them. They return big values.

Look for Bristol Shield on label on each garment

BRISTOL MILLS 50¢ and $1.00 MEN'S MERINO UNDERWEAR

Every seam is lock-stitched and covered. Frills and Cuffs are "looped-on," not seamed. Workmanship and finish of the 50c grades equal those of most $1.00 goods; and the finish of the $1.00 kind equals that usually found in $2.00 garments. Buttons, thread, sewing, all of the best. No Bristol garment will rip, shrink or full-up. All sizes—three colors. Long or short sleeves, and regular or stout drawers.

WITH Horace S. Fogel forever barred from the councils of the National League, baseball enthusiasts wonder what will become of Russ Charles Murphy, who seems from the evidence to have been the main purveyor of and impulsive force behind the mean things which Fogel said about the National League, and whose publication led to Fogel's condemnation by his fellow magnates. According to the testimony in the case, Murphy was very active in stirring up the Fogel uproar, if he did not, in fact instigate a considerable part of it himself. Fogel was "the goat."

* * *

FOGEL can scarcely force his way into the councils of the league, regardless of his interest in the Philadelphia club, because the league has voted to ignore him. It is very evident that, to be consistent, the league must also ignore Murphy. In Fogel's case it had been supposed that the Philadelphia magnate had retired from the presidency of his club for the sole purpose of evading official responsibilities. But President Wiler who succeeded him in the office surprised the reporters by telling them, after the denunciatory resolutions against Fogel had been adopted:

"I indorsed and that was said on the subject, because I think baseball, with the large amount of capital that is invested, ought to be run on the very highest principles of honor and fidelity."

* * *

MOREOVER, it must strike Fogel to realize that Wiler was the only one of the eight present who would not vote in favor of the resolution denouncing Ban Johnson. Even after hoping the Philadelphian would be the scapegoat, most fair minded men voted for the complete Whole Hog Mogul by a unanimous vote. But their own original belief that under the circumstances Murphy should have refrained from making public

Until the sixteenth it was a fairly even fight. For seven rounds there was little to choose and then Wolgast took the lead. He seemed to be getting livelier, while Ritchie was apparently fading away. A whisper came around the ring corner however that Ritchie was simply laying up on the advice of his manager Bob Neal.

The Hysterics of Youth

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THOSE who have traveled the rocky path of tears when encouraged know what one writes to girls who fail with emotions on trying to find will smile indulgently over the following letter.

There is so much in it of the brave nature that the years have taught those who are older to guide and counsel, "Like Youth."

I am a young girl [illegible] Until a few weeks ago I had been going with a young man, he was in every sense a gentleman and [illegible] We were friendship and [illegible] great each other with [illegible]

Today as I was coming down the street I observed an [illegible] He was with another girl. He tipped his hat and looked at him and [illegible] the girl turned to my horror I have not [illegible] I cannot comprehend what possessed me to do so. It was not [illegible] pity the girls, and every time I think of it I just bunch and laugh. Can you tell me what ails that man's mental [illegible]

It is the hysterics of youth. I suspect before you are [illegible] You wanted to show him an indifference with that you didn't care. And that smile became a laugh. Being very young you laugh immoderately, and you cry to excess.

You are like a swing that flies back and forth as far as the rope permits. When you get older, and it is time to let the swing die, as they say, when the swinging years are [illegible] there will be less of the extremes in all your emotions. You will never be so miserable [illegible] see a ray of hope.

I am sorry [illegible] but you can't help it. I am sure it meant no unkind feeling and that it was not the laugh of resentment. But it is safe to be misunderstood. A pleasant little smile such as you would give to a mere acquaintance, now I have won for you the admiration and respect of both your former lover and your rival.

They will not interpret that laugh to your credit. You were not jealous, you say, yet a hysterical laugh would indicate that you were. It showed that you lack self-control. You betrayed the hold on yourself that you should have.

You say that you pity the girl. How old [illegible] sixteen? My dear girl, this man was your sincere friend, and a child's understanding distrusted that friendship. Don't let that word "childish" describe your future conduct.

If you respect him, and I do not read in your letter that he has done anything to lose your respect you must give more than a sentiment as you express for the other girl.

Don't pity a girl who has won what you so flatter [illegible] that they are friends, and aim to be above the petty jealousy [illegible] the word "pity."

Acquire self-control. You need it. Your schoolgirl [illegible] words are to me [illegible] lacked self-control when [illegible] laugh was very grating," arose [illegible] go off by yourself, be alone and take a good look at the childish emotional creature that you are.

Then make up your mind to do better. Remember last a repetition of that laugh [illegible] cause you to be studied at.

His Heart's Gallery of Intimate Portraits

Copyright, 1912, by Wm. Randolph Hearst.

By Nell Brinkley

He began the collection of his Heart's Gallery of Intimate Portraits long years ago. The first portrait in it is that of the little chubby girl, with the freckled face and the funny mouth, who sat next to him at school. As he remembers her, she always seemed to be seeing the joke in life, and it was hard to determine whether she thought the joke on you or on herself.

The next portrait he keeps in his gallery is that of the high school girl whom he took to all the class dances and who wore his "frat" pin. She was pretty, but had no room in her head for anything but the little festivities of the social clique at school.

The third portrait is the girl he chose for his own out of all the realm of womanhood. He wears her image on his heart of hearts, and there is joy and happiness in thinking of the dear, wonderful days of his wooing and the sweeter, more wonderful years of his married life.

And last, but not least, is the portrait of his own darling, his gray-eyed baby girl. She is all the world to him, and he sees her mother in her and sees her in her mother—the same looks, gestures and little tricks of saying and doing things.

And happy is the man who can look at his Heart's Gallery of Intimate Portraits without regret—and thankful to life for bringing such wonderful things to him.

Love Symphony.

By A. O'SHAUGHNESSY.

A LONG the garden ways just now
I heard the flowers speak;
The white rose told me of your brow,
The red rose of your cheek;
The lily of your bended head
The bluebell of your hair,
Each looked its loveliest and said
You were more fair.

I went into the wood anon
And heard the wild birds sing,
How sweet you were; they warbled on,
Piped, trill'd the self same thing.
Thrush, blackbird, linnet, without pause,
The burden did repeat,
And still began again because
You were more sweet.

And then I went down to the sea,
And heard it murmuring, too,
Part of an ancient mystery,
And made of me and you:
How many a thousand years ago
I loved, and you were sweet—
Longer I could not stay, and so
I fled back to your feet.

Two Sides to It

Artist—Have you noticed that long hair makes a man look intellectual?

Friend—Well, it all depends. I've seen wives pick them off their husbands' coats, and then it makes them look foolish.

That rise above dark castles on their sides hung gaunt.
Oh, the country of my father was the

The country of my mother was the warm, soft south,
Where date palms fruit in plenty and the curving mouth
Of many a bay and creekiet calls the gentle sea
To shores of clustered olive and the almond tree.
Oh, the country of my mother was the warm, soft south!

The country of my dearest was the fresh green land
Where hemlock love dancing at the wind's command.
And little leaves blow whispers which of promise tell.
And fairies play at moontime in the meadow dell.
Oh, the country of my dearest was the fresh green land!

The country of my dreaming was the sunset sky
Where lonely isles of coral and lonely lakes lie,
Where thoughts take shape in colors mingled soft and gay,
And vanquished hopes have houses in our way.
Oh, the country of my dreaming was the sunset sky!

The Case of Oscar Slater

SHERLOCK HOLMES IN REAL LIFE

By Sir Arthur Conan Doyle

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

BARROWMAN, the girl of fifteen, had met the man presumed to be the murderer in the street and taken one passing glance at him under a gas lamp on a wet December's night—difficult circumstances for an identification. She used these words in New York:

"That man here is something like him," which she afterward amended to "very like him." She admitted that a picture of the man she was expected to identify had been shown to her before she came into the court.

Her one point by which she claimed to recognize the man was the crooked nose. This crooked nose was not much more apparent to others than the peculiarity of walk which so greatly impressed Helen Lambie that, after seeing half a dozen steps of it, she could identify it with confidence. In Edinburgh Barrowman, like Lambie, was very much more certain than in New York. The further they got from the scene the easier apparently did recognition become. "Yes, that is the man who knocked against me that night," she said.

Self-Restraint

It is remarkable that both these females, Lambie and Barrowman, swore that though they were thrown together in this journey out to New York, and actually shared the same cabin, they never once talked of the subject of their mission or compared notes as to the man they were about to identify. For girls of the respective ages of fifteen and twenty-one this certainly furnishes a unique example of self-restraint.

Those, then are the three identifications by the only people who saw the murderer. Had the diamond brooch clue been authentic, and these identifications come upon the top of it, they would undoubtedly have been strongly corroborative. But when the brooch has been shown to be a complete mistake, I really do not understand how any one could accept such half-hearted recognitions as being enough to establish the identity and guilt of the prisoner.

There remains the so-called identification by twelve witnesses who had seen a man loitering in the street during the weeks before the crime had been committed. I have said a "so-called" identification, for the proceedings were farcical as a real test of recognition.

The witnesses had been portraits of the accused. They were all aware that he was a foreigner, and then they were asked to pick out his swarthy Jewish physiognomy from among the blue Glasgow policemen and two railway officials. Naturally they did it without hesitation, since this man was more like the dark individual whom they had seen and described than the others could be.

Read their own descriptions, however, of the man they had seen, with the details of his clothing, and they will be found in many respects to differ from each other on one hand, and in many from Slater on the other. Here is a synopsis of the impressions:

Their Impressions

Mrs. McHaffie: "Dark. Mustached, light overcoat, not waterproof, check trousers, spats. Black bowler hat. Nose normal."

Miss M. McHaffie: "Seen at some time and same description. Was only prepared at first to say that there was some resemblance, but had been thinking it over, and concluded that he was the man."

Miss A. M. McHaffie: "Same as before. Had heard the man speak and noticed nothing in his accent. (Prisoner has a strong German accent.)"

Madge McHaffie (belongs to the same family): "Dark, mustached, nose normal. Check trousers, fawn overcoat and spats. Black bowler hat. The prisoner was fairly like the man."

In connection with the identification of these four witnesses it is to be observed that neither check trousers or spats were found in the prisoner's luggage. As the murderer was described as being dressed in dark trousers, there was no possible reason why these clothes, if Slater owned them, should have been destroyed.

Constable O'Brien: "Claimed to know the prisoner by sight. Says he was the man he saw loitering. Light coat and a hat. It was a week before the crime, and he was loitering eighty yards from the scene of it. He picked him out among five constables as the man he had seen."

Constable Walker: "Had seen the loiterer across the street, never nearer, and after dark in December. Thought at first he was someone else whom he knew. Had heard that the man he had to identify was of foreign appearance. Picked him out from a number of detectives. 'The man seen had a mustache.'"

Euphemia Cunningham: "Very dark, sallow, heavy featured. Clean shaven. Nose normal. Dark tweed coat. Green cap with peak."

W. Campbell: "Had been with the previous witness. Corroborated. 'There was a general resemblance between the prisoner and the man, but he could not positively identify him.'"

Alex Gillies: "Sallow, dark haired and clean shaven. Fawn coat. Cap. 'The prisoner resembled him, but witness could not say he was the same man.'"

R. B. Bryson: "Black coat and vest. Black bowler hat. No overcoat. Black mustache, with droop. Sallow, foreign. (This witness had seen the man the night before the murder. He appeared to be looking up at Miss Gilchrist's windows.)"

A. Nairn: "Broad shoulders, long neck. Dark hair. Motor cap. Light overcoat to knees. Never saw the man's face. 'Oh! I will not swear in fact, but I am certain he is the man I saw—But I will not swear.'"

Mrs. Liddell: "Peculiar nose. Clear complexion, not sallow. Dark, clean shaven, brown tweed cap. Brown tweed coat with hemmed edge. Delicate man 'rather drawn together.' She believed that prisoner was the man. Saw him in the street immediately before the murder."

Contradictions

These are the twelve witnesses as to the identity of the mysterious stranger. In the first place there is no evidence whatever that this loungor in the street had really anything to do with the murder. It is just as probable that he had some vulgar amour, and was waiting for his girl to run out to him.

What could a man who was planning a murder hope to gain by standing nightly beforehand eighty and a hundred yards away from the place in the darkness?

But supposing that we waive this point and examine the plain question as to whether Slater was the same man as the loiterer, we find ourselves faced by a mass of difficulties and contradictions. Two of the most precise witnesses were Nairn and Bryson, who saw the stranger upon the Sunday night preceding the murder.

Upon that night Slater had an unshaken alibi, vouched for not only by the girl Antoine, with whom he lived and their accountant, Schmalz, but by an acquaintance, Samuel Reid, who had been with him from 6 to 10:30.

This positive evidence, which was quite unshaken in cross-examination, must completely destroy the surmises of the two witnesses as to the identity of the stranger and Slater. Then come the four witnesses of the McHaffie family, who are all strong upon check trousers and spats, articles of dress which were traced to the prisoner.

Finally, apart from the discrepancies about the mustache, there is a mixture of bowler hats, green caps, brown caps and motor caps which leave a most confused and indefinite impression in the mind. Evidence of this kind might be of some value if supplementary to some strong ascertained fact, but to attempt to build upon such an identification alone is to construct the whole case upon shifting sand.

The reader has already a grasp of the facts, but some fresh details come out at the trial which may be enumerated here.

They have to be lightly touched upon within the limits of such an argument as this, but those who desire a fuller summary will find it in an account of the trial published by Hodge of Edinburgh, and ably edited by William Roughead, W. S.

His Actions

On this book and on the verbatim reports and shorthand account of the American proceedings, I base my own examination of the case. First, as to Slater's movements upon the day of the crime. He began the day, according to the account of himself and the women, by the receipt of the two letters already referred to, which caused him to hasten his journey to America. The whole day seems to have been occupied by preparations for his impending departure. He gave his servant Schmalz notice as from next Saturday. Before five this was shown by the postmark upon the envelope, he wrote to a post office in London, where he had some money on deposit. At 6:12 a telegram was sent by his name and presumably by him from the Central Station to Dent, London, for his watch, which was being repaired. According to the evidence of two witnesses, he was seen in a billiard room at 6:20. The murder, it will be remembered, was done at seven. He remained about ten minutes in the billiard room, and left some time between 6:30 and 6:40.

Rathman, one of these witnesses, opposed that he had at the time a mustache about a quarter of an inch long, which was so noticeable that no one could take him for a clean-shaven man. Aptoine, his mistress, and Schmalz, the servant, both deposed that Slater dined at home at 7 o'clock. The evidence of the girl is no doubt questionable, but there was no possible reason why the dismissed servant Schmalz should perjure herself for the sake of her employer.

THE TWO GIRLS WHO SAW THE ASSASSIN.

It is remarkable that both these females swore that though they were thrown together in this journey out to New York, and actually shared the same cabin, they never once talked of their mission or compared notes as to the man they were about to identify.

Up-to-the-Minute Jokes

A painter was once asked by his little son: "Father, what is a connoisseur?"

"Well, my son," the father answered, "did you notice that tall, white-haired gentleman at the reception in my studio yesterday?"

"The one with the fur-lined overcoat, father? Oh, yes I noticed him."

"Well, my son, he is a connoisseur."

"But how do you know he's a connoisseur, father?"

"By his actions, my son."

"But, father, he acted like every one else, didn't he?"

"Certainly not, my boy—certainly not. The others drank my wine, ate my sandwiches and took leave. But he bought a picture."

* * *

There are those in Scotland—and elsewhere—who appreciate the value of a generous marriage portion.

"Mac, I hearn ye was courtin' bonny Kate McPherson," said Donald to an acquaintance one morning.

"Weel, Sandy, man, I was in love wi' the bonny lass," was Mac's reply, "but I fund out she had nae siller, so I said to myself, 'Mac, be a man.' And I was a man; and noo I pass her by wi' silent contempt."

* * *

The man rushed excitedly into the smoking compartment.

"A lady has fainted in the next carriage! Has anybody got any whiskey?" he asked.

Instantly half a dozen flasks were thrust out to him. Taking the nearest one, he turned the bottle up and took a big drink; then, handing the flask back, said:

"Thank you! It always did make me feel ill to see a lady faint."

YOUNG WIFE SAVED FROM HOSPITAL

Tells How Sick She Was And What Saved Her From An Operation.

Upper Sandusky, Ohio.—"Three years ago I was married and went to housekeeping. I was not feeling well and could hardly drag myself along. I had such tired feelings, my back ached, my sides ached, I had bladder trouble awfully bad, and I could not get sleep. I had headaches, too, and became almost a nervous wreck. My doctor told me to go to a hospital. I did not like that idea very well, so, when I saw your advertisement in a paper, I wrote to you for advice, and have done as you told me. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and now I have my health.

"If sick and ailing women would only know enough to take your medicine, they would get relief."—Mrs. BENJ. H. STANSBERRY, Route 6, Box 18, Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

If you have mysterious pains, irregularity, backache, extreme nervousness, inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait too long, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound now.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and such unquestionable testimony as the above proves the value of this famous remedy and should give every one confidence.

MACARONI AND HAM THANKSGIVING FEAST FOR EMMY DESTINN

After a tiresome journey on a train that arrived here over an hour late, and after a Thanksgiving dinner of macaroni and ham, and a generally "schrechlich" day, Emmy Destinn is here for her first appearance of the season in Boston tonight, singing the title role of Puccini's "Madam Butterfly." She comes from New York, where her singing in "The Magic Flute" at the Metropolitan last Saturday was one of the finest features of the revival of the great Mozart opera.

Madam Butterfly is the role which the Bohemian soprano first sang with immense success in London, winning the special favor of Queen Alexandra, who personally asked Puccini to keep Miss Destinn in mind when he produced his next opera. The result was that Miss Destinn was chosen to take the leading part when "The Girl of the Golden West" was given its premiere in New York two seasons ago. She has appeared here in "Aida," "Tosca," "Madam Butterfly" and "The Girl of the Golden West."

Carve the Big Contest Turkey

Now Is the Time to Get a Big Slice of the Contest Feast of Prizes.

DORIS CRANNELL

By THE CONTEST EDITOR.

How did you come out on Thanksgiving dinner, Mister Candidate? Did you get a large section of Bro. Turkey? Or was your share a small slice off the neck?

"Huh!" replied somebody. "Catch me eatin' off the turkey neck. A large slab of the white meat, a second joint, one of the legs and a small mountain of stuffin' for mine. I always get enough while it's goin'."

Is that so?

Well, then—how much of this "AMERICAN Contest turkey are you carving off for yourself right now at this Opportunity Period, when the carving is good?

How About Contest?

Are you going to come out like the man with the turkey neck? Or are you going to walk off with the capital prize of $10,000—or with one of the five $1,000 prizes—or with one of the many other desirable rewards?

Give ear (meaning listen).

Your share of the contest turkey may be decided right in this Opportunity Period. It is pretty apt to be settled, in fact. Look the situation right in the face. Here is a period of three weeks during which all subscriptions in lots of ten count double.

Now there are a whole lot of candidates who, when they read that opportunity offer last Sunday, said to themselves:

"What a chance—subscript one in lots of ten count double for three weeks. Well just watch your Uncle Dudley hustle while this offer holds."

And these live ones went out and hustled and are hustling now and are getting the subscriptions and turning them in and getting credited with a double count for every block of ten.

They Are the Winners.

These are the people who are going to win—those who take advantage of the big offers. And this is the biggest opportunity offer of the whole contest, as guaranteed when the announcement was made.

Speaking of opportunities, the Contest Editor takes this opportunity to square himself with a brave little girl down in Oak Island, Revere. She is four-year-old Doris Crannell, one of the plucklest candidates in District 2. In the first vote standing, published last Sunday, Doris was credited with only 208,580 votes and with twenty-second position in District 2, whereas she should have been credited with 752,470 votes and with sixth position in her district, which is a very different thing. It was simply a mistake, and the Contest Editor hastens to rectify it.

Making Plucky Fight.

The reason the Contest Editor is particularly eager to credit Doris with all she deserves, is because she is an invalid. Her father, who is employed in the Boston branch of the Cudahy Packing Company, is her campaign manager, and many persons are her willing workers. Incidentally, Doris was one of the special cash prize winners announced last Sunday.

The Oak Island Ladies' Social Club, of which Mrs. E. L. Reno is secretary, has sent out campaign cards for Doris, and they remind the Contest Editor of something else.

The C. E. has had it in mind right along to punch up some of Geese candidates, especially the men, on the necessity of getting their girl and women friends to boost theser compaigns.

Women are great campaign workers because they are persistent and enthusiastic and will battle for a good cause. The Contest Editor knows about women. He has seen married life the first year and married life the second year, and so many more years beside that he makes Helen and Warren look like newly-weds.

By the way—did you know that this is Opportunity——— Oh, you did, did you? Well, this Contest Editor is from Missouri.

ABSOLVE BOY WHO SHOT CHUM

The Woburn police have absolved twelve-year-old Lawrence Bondreau from blame for the shooting to death of his fifteen-year-old chum Joseph Garvey as they were playing at hunting.

Young Garvey, with his father, John Garvey, No. 25 Main street, Woburn, and Arthur Boudreau, the fifteen-year-old brother of Lawrence, had been on a hunting trip.

Lawrence was playing with the rifle, and in a joking way pointed it at Garvey and pulled the trigger. The bullet entered the boy's head and he fell to the ground. Heroic efforts were made to save young Garvey's life, but he died without recovering consciousness. Medical Examiner William H. Kelsher pronounced the shooting accidental.

The annual meeting of the American Automobile Association, which is to be held in Chicago on Monday next, will bring to the front many interesting points relative to Federal road construction, touring, racing and, other matters that come under the jurisdiction of the organization.

The fact that President Robert B. Hooper declines to accept a re-election will bring a new man into the field. While the East is desirous of retaining the chief office of the organization, there is a feeling that the next president will be selected from the West, especially since the Eastern section of the country has been favored to a considerable degree in this line. Lewis R. Speare, James C. Fortescue and J. J. MacNamara will represent Boston at this meeting.

It Is True That Mr. Ettor Has Been Unjustly Used

But Mr. Ettor Makes a Great Mistake When He Ascribes His Troubles to the LAWS—We Are Quite Certain, Too, That One of These Days Mr. Ettor Will Realize and Admit That He Owes His Present Freedom to the Laws of Massachusetts and to NOTHING ELSE.

Mr. Ettor is wrong when he tells his rejoicing followers among the workmen of the Lawrence mills that he DOES NOT OWE HIS LIFE "TO THE LAWS OF MASSACHUSETTS."

The laws of Massachusetts threw around Mr. Ettor and his two companions their ample protection. Prejudice, hate, injustice and power were not able to break through these laws, whose protection Mr. Ettor apparently FAILS TO APPRECIATE.

Ettor has been GREATLY WRONGED. His life has been UNJUSTLY PUT IN JEOPARDY. It is not remarkable that, with his wounded feelings, he is unable to make NICE DISTINCTIONS.

The truth, however, demands that Ettor and others should know the wisdom and the beneficence of the laws which AUTOMATICALLY protected him against the assault of power.

Ettor owes his acquittal and his freedom to the laws which required that he should be TRIED BY A JURY.

Ettor owed the absence of class prejudice in the jury to laws which required that he should be tried by A JURY OF HIS PEERS.

Ettor should not forget, even in his moments of excusable bitterness, that THE LAWS enabled him to be tried by men of HIS OWN CLASS, by workingmen, who suffer EQUALLY WITH HIS FOLLOWERS under conditions which oppress them.

The charge by Judge Quinn at Salem was fair because Judge Quinn was delivering, NOT HIS PERSONAL OPINION, BUT THE LAW.

The INJUSTICE done to Mr. Ettor lies at the door of MEN. It cannot be charged to the LAWS.

We boast, in this country, that ours is a government OF LAWS and not of men. SOMETIMES, this boast appears to be without warrant in fact. SOMETIMES, the men whom we choose to administer our laws do not administer OUR laws, but their own distorted notion of them.

The American people WANT TO BE FAIR. They want to be JUST. They want to be FREE. They want to be EQUAL. They know that they cannot discriminate between themselves or between themselves and others, living within our borders, doing the work of our civilization, producing the wealth of our country, respecting all those institutions which are good.

Mr. Ettor is RIGHT when he says that the great and justifiable strike at Lawrence could not have been won without the SOLIDARITY OF THE WORKING PEOPLE. It is quite as true that it could not have been won without the sympathy of THE GREAT MASS OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

The AMERICAN denounced the mill owners who brought about the strike, the arrest of Ettor and the subsequent proceedings against him and his associates. The AMERICAN now REJOICES with Mr. Ettor's followers in his TRIUMPHANT VINDICATION.

We believe, for this reason, that Mr. Ettor will accept, in the spirit in which we make it, a suggestion from us and revolve it in his mind CAREFULLY.

In moving great masses of men, and in effecting great revolutionary changes in society, SO MUCH CAN BE ATTEMPTED AT ONCE THAT NOTHING IS ACCOMPLISHED AT ALL.

The boy, taking his first lesson in physics, learns that he can suspend a heavy weight from a rope and attach to the weight a slender thread and by steady application of LITTLE pulls on the thread he can set that enormous weight swinging through the air with such force that it would snap a rope if a rope attempted to stop it suddenly.

Yet, that same thread, applied to the same weight with too much or too sudden a pull, would be snapped without so much as moving the weight the breadth of a hair.

Medicines and poisons, administered in quantities TOO LARGE, fail of the desired effect.

These are LAWS OF NATURE WHICH APPLY TO ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL AND POLITICAL EFFORT.

If Mr. Ettor would be careful not to criticise those institutions of our country which are NOBLE, and which are reverenced by ALL GOOD CITIZENS, and which could never, WHEN THEY ARE NOT ABUSED, harm any man, he would not alienate millions of the thinking people of this country who want to help the workingmen at Lawrence AND EVERYWHERE ELSE, to better standards of living and a brighter outlook on life.

Look to the Future—by All Means Look Back Also

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner

Our great and good contributor, Ella Wheeler Wilcox—really a great woman, a marvel in many ways—wrote a poem beginning "Let Me Always Look Forward. Never Back."

And beneath this poem—you read it in our paper only last Friday, probably—she asked you to join a movement called "The Futurist Society."

The general idea of Mrs. Wilcox's poem, and of her fine writing, is "always to look into the future, never think about the past." She tells you that man should put his past behind him, "forget his own achievements, whether good or evil."

In connection with looking into the future, however, we want to remind you in our prosaic way, without any poetry, that the past, as well as the future, is valuable.

We see a great tree, its beautiful green leaves reaching up toward the sky. Those leaves looking up toward the sky, looking toward the future, are taking in life, carbon, food, color for the tree.

Underground, out of sight, the roots of that tree are taking in life also. And they are living upon the leaves and the rotted bodies of trees that died long ago.

So it is with a human being. Your eyes, which are like the leaves of the tree, look ahead; and in the future you get new hope, new life, color, ambition, purpose.

And your thoughts, some of them, like the roots of the tree, should be planted in the past, feeding upon the achievements of those that are gone.

Keep your eyes, stretch out your arms toward the future if you will. KEEP YOUR FEET ON THE GROUND WHICH REPRESENTS THE PAST.

Before you try to do anything yourself, KNOW WHAT OTHERS HAVE DONE BEFORE YOU. That will save you the trouble of doing things that have been done already, saying things that have been said already, inventing things invented long ago.

You are the latest little leaf branching out from the tree of humanity. The whole tree is back of you—branches, trunk, roots, all of it. You, the little leaf, may look out in the air, out in the future, get what you can there. But don't lose sight of the tree upon which you live, the tree that feeds you. That tree IS THE PAST.

Think your little thoughts ahead, get your food and mental nourishment from that which is back of you.

Study the great that are dead, dwell upon them and upon their thoughts, feed your mind with the power that they offer you—as the big roots branching out in all directions below the tree, and reaching under ground as far as the branches reach above ground, live upon the mould of the leaves and trees dead long ago.

For Attorney-General of Maine, Scott Wilson, Esq., of Portland

We Learn From the Sunrise State That the Election of Mr. Wilson Is on the Slate, and We Hasten to Ask a Few REASONABLE Questions of and Concerning the Undoubtedly Able Mr. Wilson

Some of our good friends in Maine are WORRYING OVER A UNITED STATES SENATORSHIP. This seems to be the YEAR OF THE BIG WORRY over United States senatorships.

Early in the year the political parties nominated candidates for the Legislature and candidates for the Senatorship. The Republicans named Edwin Chick Burleigh, a millionaire lumberman, who owns the newspaper at Augusta and who has been Governor of Maine and a Representative in Congress. He is 70 years old.

SINCE THAT TIME, the Republicans and the Progressives, working together under the queerest of queer "understandings," have carried the State for a gubernatorial candidate who must be EITHER a Republican or a Progressive—we have been unable to find out which—and have carried the Legislature for men who were NOMINATED AS REPUBLICANS AND ELECTED AS REPUBLICANS, although a considerable number have since experienced a change of political faith.

These Progressives of the coming Maine Legislature have our profoundest sympathy. At this distance they would appear to be between the old boy and the deep green sea.

If their former Republicanism has not been WASHED AWAY, they must elect to the Senate at Washington, for a six-year term, the Honorable Edwin Chick Burleigh of Augusta, as splendid a standpatter as Aldrich, as much an Old Guardsman as Crane.

And, IF THEIR PROGRESSIVENESS IS REAL, these gentlemen of the State House in Augusta, when they become parties to the retirement of a genuine Progressive from the United States Senate—we refer now to Obadiah Gardner—will probably feel as cheerful over the job as so many POLITICAL HANGMEN.

The situation is as interesting as any other we know about in American politics. Nobody will envy the Maine Progressives their responsibility. They were nominated as Republicans in primaries which also nominated Mr. Burleigh. Mr. Burleigh was all at that time that he is today. No new fact can be brought forward bearing upon his political antecedents or the standpat habits of his standpat mind. Yet many of these legislators are NOW Progressives, while the Democratic incumbent of the Senatorship, Mr. Gardner of Rockland, is A TRUE PROGRESSIVE IF THERE ARE ANY IN NEW ENGLAND.

We in Massachusetts can well and cheerfully leave this perplexing situation to the men of Maine who have had it brought upon them by the strangest of strange straddles, a coalition of standpatters and Progressive leaders.

Concerning another problem which will come before the Legislature at Augusta in January, however, it MAY BE POSSIBLE to offer our friends in Maine a HELPFUL SUGGESTION.

The Maine Legislature will elect an ATTORNEY-GENERAL, to succeed William R. Pattangall of Waterville.

We note, in the newspapers of Maine, that the inside track for the Attorney-Generalship is occupied at present by Mr. Scott Wilson of Portland.

And we should like to inquire if this Mr. Scott Wilson of Portland is the SAME MR. SCOTT WILSON WHO IS SAID TO BE THE PERSONAL COUNSEL OF MR. EDWIN P. RICKER, and if Mr. Edwin P. Ricker is not a director in, and the big Maine power of, the Maine Central Railroad, and if Mr. Charles S. Mellen is not the President of that railroad, and Mr. J. P. Morgan one of its directors?

These questions do not spring from any animus in these parts against Mr. Scott Wilson of Portland, who may, for all that we know, be all that is best in New England citizenship, all that is most brilliant in young attorneys, everything splendid in model neighborliness.

The coming year is BOUND TO BE A MOST IMPORTANT YEAR IN THE HISTORY OF NEW ENGLAND TRANSPORTATION. There are signs in Boston of a last stand against the New York ring which is fighting to retain a monopoly of this business by land and by water.

At such a time, it seems to the AMERICAN, the people of Maine will want to have THEIR man in the Attorney-General's office at Augusta: NOT Mr. Ricker's man, NOT Mr. Mellen's man, NOT Mr. Morgan's man, but THE PEOPLE'S MAN.

If Mr. Scott Wilson is NOT Mr. Ricker's counsel, we shall be delighted to have him say so in the columns of the AMERICAN, which are OPEN TO HIM FOR THAT PURPOSE.

And if Mr. Wilson IS Mr. Ricker's personal counsel, we shall ask our Progressive friends in the Maine Legislature to TAKE NOTE OF THE FACT AND ACT ACCORDINGLY.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

A PLAN TO REDUCE THE COST OF LIVING.

Editor Boston AMERICAN.

Dear Sir:—The discussion in the papers during the past year of the high cost of living has been very general, but it comes short of removing the trouble. I think a greater effort is necessary to produce food products. We should increase the dog tax and pass a law in Massachusetts and New England that no person shall keep a dog and allow him to run at large without his personal care and responsibility. A law of that kind should be passed and enforced. There is no profit in keeping so many dogs and much danger from diseases conveyed in families of children by them. Human life should be protected and conserved by more interest and care in things essential.

If this law were passed, our hills and valleys, now so much neglected, would be covered with sheep and cattle and the meat problem would be solved. We should raise more corn and use more corn for food, and the high cost of living would be cut off and New England would be greatly benefited in all its industries and the people would be healthier, happier and more independent.

Will you advocate the passage of a law at the coming session of the Massachusetts General Court to restrain dogs and increase the tax, in accord with the above suggestion? Very respectfully yours,

CHARLES N. PROUTY.
